FIRE IN QUEBEC INFANTS' HOSPITAL

Nuns and Nurses Fight To Rescue Tots From Blaze

Flames Spread Rapidly Through Roof and Windows of Wing of New Institution in Downtown Section of City

Canadian Press
Quebec, Oct. 28.—A third alarm called all the downtown section of the Quebec Fire Brigade to a serious fire in Infant Jesus Hospital on Vandœuvre Road here to-day. Spreading with great rapidity, a few minutes after the outbreak, flames were bursting through the roof and windows of one wing of the comparatively new institution.

New Haven, Conn., Oct. 28.—There is something good in the jazz band, said John Erskine, when it makes its members look happy.

NEW ELEVATOR MOOTED
New Westminster, B.C., Oct. 28 (Canadian Press).—Negotiations for a 1,000,000-bushel elevator on property of the Canadian Rice Mills Ltd., near Woodward's Landing, are stated to be under way. The elevator would be served by the Lulu Island extension of the Canadian National Railway.

England Undecided On War Debt Policy

London, Oct. 28.—It was made known in high government quarters to-day that for the present the cabinet is doing nothing at all about the debt to the United States. Every phase of the situation has received consideration, and the cabinet has canvassed the whole range of possibilities, including a possible approach to Washington, and request for negotiations prior to payment of the interest due December 15. However, it was emphasized that a statement by Neville Chamberlain, Chancellor of the Exchequer, a few days ago that the government had not decided what its debt policy will be, still holds.

WHEAT GAINS AGAIN TO-DAY

Winnipeg Market Coming Back and Chicago Reflects Steadiness

Halt in Downward Rush Restores Confidence of Farmers

Canadian Press
Winnipeg, Oct. 28.—While Premier and agrarian bodies of the three prairie provinces met to study the latest turn in the wheat situation, the market found buyers in sufficient quantity and bulls easily dominated a market that closed with moderate gains for the day.

Winnipeg Market Coming Back and Chicago Reflects Steadiness

It marked the second consecutive day in which gains had been established and brought the market back to within one cent and a half of the level from which it tobogganed two days ago to register losses of more than four cents. Chicago also reflected the steadiness in Winnipeg quotations.

Farmers of the west, hard-hit by the recent two-day torrent of selling, turned optimistically to the meeting of the United Farmers of Alberta executive, called to discuss grain marketing problems. The halt in the downward rush of wheat prices has restored his confidence, but he still seeks a solution of the problem.

HEALTHY SIGN
It is a year since the nearby futures stood at a premium over the distant months and this is a healthy sign indicating as it does demand for the actual wheat. Foreign sales of Canadian wheat are again in the ascendancy. Considerable quantities of grain were reported worked-for-export to-day. Reliable estimates place the amount sold "outside" during the week at more than 4,000,000 bushels.

Rail Bill May Be Delayed in Commons

Ottawa, Oct. 28 (Canadian Press).—The government will not proceed with the railway legislation implementing the report of the royal commission on transportation, in the House of Commons, before adjournment, unless the House so desires. Rt. Hon. R. B. Bennett, Prime Minister, stated to-day. The temper of the House will determine as to whether the legislation, which is now in the Senate, will be taken up in the Commons before the coming recess.

Sixty in Hospital as Climax of Hunger March on London

Associated Press
London, Oct. 28.—Sixty or seventy persons were nursing injuries to-day in the wake of the riot staged in Hyde Park as the climax of the "hunger army's" march on London.

A dozen casualties, three of them policemen, were seriously hurt in the riot which transformed the fashionable park into a battleground yesterday.

The police charged the worst of the riot to London toughs, hereditary enemies of the bobbies. These men, the authorities said, are always ready to take advantage of every opportunity to make trouble.

"Out of Politics," She Says, Denying Rumor of Aldermanic Intentions

To set at rest a rumor which has been circulating in the city recently, Mrs. Margaret Dorothy North, former police commissioner, this morning denied she had any intention of seeking a seat on the City Council at the December elections.

"No, I am definitely out of politics," Mrs. North said in reply to a query from a Times reporter. "I had been reported Mrs. North would seek aldermanic honors along with Andrew McAvail, who sat with her on the police commission until the elective system was abolished last spring."

Broke Quarantine To Attend Council

Alderman A. W. McMillan of Port Alberni Fined $1 in Police Court for His Devotion to Duty.

Special to The Times
Port Alberni, Oct. 28.—Devotion to his duty as a member of the city council caused appearance of Alderman A. W. McMillan in the City Police Court yesterday. The alderman was fined $1 and costs for having ignored a scarlet fever quarantine on Monday evening.

Magistrate Gordon Campbell pointed out that the situation was serious and that general observance of the health regulations was essential. The charge would be regarded as a warning that others breaking quarantine restrictions would be dealt with severely.

QUESTIONS ON COAL SUBSIDY

Provisions Made For Continuation Until March, Says Premier Bennett

Ottawa, Oct. 28.—The government was asked in the House of Commons to-day if it proposed to continue the subsidies paid on western coal moving into the central markets of Canada, for another year. Hon. Charles Stewart, Liberal, West Edmonton, put the question.

Premier R. B. Bennett stated the order-in-council providing for payment of the subsidies made provision until the end of the present fiscal year on March 31 next.

Beginning next week the members of the House of Commons will be deprived of their usual "Wednesday evening off." By virtue of a motion by the Prime Minister, adopted in the House to-day, sittings will be held on Wednesday evening until the long adjournment for Christmas. There will be no session Tuesday, All Saints Day.

Reduction in Cost of Operation For Canadian Lines Object of Legislation Based on Recommendations of Duff Commission

Canadian Press
Ottawa, Oct. 28.—Political interest centres on the Senate to-day, where the elder statesmen have before them the new railway legislation which is to give effect to the recommendations of Duff Royal Commission on Transportation.

While the House of Commons continues its now two-week-old debate on the Imperial Conference Trade Treaty the Upper House begins a discussion which vitally affects the pocket books of every Canadian. The bill introduced by the government leader, Senator Arthur Meighen, is designed to accomplish two purposes, reorganize the management of the Canadian National Railways and ensure co-operation between that system and the Canadian Pacific Railway in the elimination of wasteful competition and a general reduction in the cost of railway operation.

ON RECOMMENDATIONS

The bill faithfully reproduces the recommendations of the imposing commission which toured Canada from coast to coast last winter and spent many months in preparing its report. While it is prepared to give effect to the commission's suggestions, Senator Meighen said, the government is not definitely committed by long distance to the bill. It would welcome any amendments members cared to bring forward.

For the Canadian National Railways of the new plan involves abolition of the present large board of directors. Control would be vested in a board of three trustees, completely independent of control by either Parliament or the government.

Vancouver, Oct. 28.—Walking into police headquarters Thursday evening, Paul Dykstra, twenty-seven, no fixed address, tossed an automatic pistol and $28 in bills and silver on the counter of the general office and declared he was the bandit who three hours earlier had held up J. Campbell-McLean, jeweler, in his store on West Georgia Street.

Before Constable F. Fish and W. Haynes, to whom he made his declaration, could recover from their surprise, the man made a further confession, stating that he also held up the Great Northern Railway Depot ticket office, Main Street, on September 3, and escaped with approximately $200.

Dykstra added that he attempted to hold up a clerk in the same office on October 21.

"I am fed up," I was driven by desperation. I was out of work and without funds. The thought that I had robbed these persons was too much for me. The jeweler thought I was going to hold up a clerk in the same office on October 21.

RAIL BILL CALLS FOR CO-OPERATION

ARBITRAL TRIBUNAL

To ensure co-operation between the two companies the bill would set up an arbitral tribunal composed of the chairman of the Board of Railway Commissioners as chairman and one representative chosen by each railway. In matters of major importance two additional members could be appointed by the Eschequer Court of Canada.

Either railway might submit to the tribunal any disagreement with the other for settlement. The decision of the tribunal would be final on all questions of law and fact, but on questions of jurisdiction would be subject to review by the Supreme Court of Canada.

IMMEDIATE ACTION

The bill requires the railways to "adopt forthwith, or as soon as practicable, such co-operative measures, plans and arrangements as shall consistently with the proper handling of traffic, be best adapted to the removal of unnecessary waste or uneconomical services; to the avoidance of duplication in services or facilities; and to the joint use and operation of all such properties as may conveniently and without undue restriction be either party be so used, and to the meeting of competition in traffic in any form."

"In the event that a representative of either company is unable or unwilling, or neglects or refuses to act as to continue to act, a successor may be appointed by the company, the representatives or by the president of the eschequer court in the event of a failure so to appoint, or the tribunal may, by direction of the presiding officer, proceed to consider and determine the matter or thing in dispute, notwithstanding the inability, unwillingness, neglect, or refusal to act of such representative."

KEY TRIBUNAL FEES

The National Company and the Pacific Company shall pay all reasonable fees and expenses of the members of the arbitral tribunal appointed by them or by the president in equal shares or in such proportions as shall be directed by the presiding officer. The fees and expenses of the hearing and of witnesses and experts appearing before the tribunal shall be such as are allowed by the presiding officer, and shall be paid either by one company or by the two companies in such proportions as he shall direct.

"The decision of the majority of any arbitral tribunal shall be final."

JURISDICTION IN DISPUTES

"Any arbitral tribunal shall have full jurisdiction in disputes between the companies in respect of all measures, plans and arrangements, or proposals therefor, authorized in part two of this act, and without restricting the generality of the foregoing, measures, plans and arrangements, or proposals therefor, relating to:

- (a) Joint use of terminals;
- (b) Running rights and joint use of tracks where there are actual or functional duplications, or where such may be avoided;

BABY BORN ON HUNGER MARCH

Jobless Seattle Woman Collapses on Highway and Is Taken to Maternity Home

Winlock, Wash., Oct. 28.—Stumbling along the highway in a vain effort to reach friends before her baby was born, a hungry and scantily clad woman, Mrs. Ben Bligh of Seattle, who was hiking from the Puget Sound city to Kelso, collapsed on the highway near Winlock.

Shortly afterward she gave birth to an eight-and-a-half-pound boy at the local maternity home.

She started out from Seattle on her long tramp to Kelso several days ago, leaving her fifteen-month-old daughter with Seattle friends. At Kelso she hoped to find friends whose address she did not know. Her husband is awaiting for work to provide for his little family.

But she was ill-prepared for her difficult trek. "With little or no money and no food, with barely enough clothes to cover her body and in no condition to travel, she bravely started out on her 150-mile hike. She had covered about 100 miles of her route, when she collapsed."

She was taken to the office of a local physician and then rushed to the maternity home, where her child was born a few hours later. Kindly hands of sympathetic Winlock persons have ministered to her needs and furnished her and the baby with needed clothes.

THREE LOST IN WYOMING STORM

Worst Blizzard of Recent Years Sweeps Game Country

Shepherd, Wyo., Oct. 28.—The worst blizzard of recent years was today sweeping the Wooded Game Country and the Big Horn mountains, where three hunters were believed to have perished in a storm last week.

Ranger Ely Dickson reported eight inches of new snow in the mountains, and the storm was accompanied by a wind of hurricane velocity. The range and the forest area near here is now under snow from fourteen inches to three feet in depth.

No word had reached here to-day of a party of twenty men who went into the mountains early this week in an effort to find the missing hunters. The party consisted of three guides, Dell F. Yankum, twenty-one, and Dillon McKinnon, seventeen. Forestry officials said they were not known.

They were believed to have been reported missing by the mountains again today, and it was feared the searchers would experience considerable difficulty in breaking their way out of drifts, which in places have reached a height of more than ten feet.

President Hoover Breaks Custom of Generation by Activity of Speaking Trips; Roosevelt Convinced Tide Running Strongly Democratic

BY BYRON PRICE

Washington, Oct. 28.—The quadrilateral spectacle of Hoover and Roosevelt, determine whether a Democratic or Republican Congress shall sit on Capitol Hill, and vote thirty-four new state administrations into power.

The potential magnitude of these decisions in the making of national history is reflected in the furious rush of campaigning. A political canvass which rolled along quietly enough through many summer weeks has taken on more and more of the spectacular as it nears the end.

The big October push of the republicans, led by President Herbert Hoover, is a new kind of party procedure.

In their frequency and their intense activity the speaking trips of the president break the custom of his predecessors for a generation. His speeches themselves, by their direct references to his opponent, are a departure from his practice of four years ago.

Republican managers, declaring the party organization greatly heartened by the Hoover campaigning, now assert that the tide of popular favor has set itself definitely in his favor. The democrats reply that nothing will come of it in electoral votes. Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt, returning home after his last extending swing into the west and south, declared himself convinced that the tide was running strongly democratic.

Alfred E. Smith has taken the stump for the democratic ticket, opening his campaign with a speech at Newark, which stirred up a riot of cheering, accompanied by a chorus of boing for those he attacked. He talked longest about prohibition, and Senator William Borah of Idaho also spoke that the words of the democratic 1928 standard bearer had helped Mr. Hoover.

Cumberland Pair Married Wednesday

Special to The Times

Cumberland, Oct. 28.—Autumn leaves and flowers turned a charming setting for the marriage at St. George's United Church on Wednesday evening of Vincent Ferguson, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Ferguson, and Stanley Edward Mounce, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Mounce.

The bride and groom were very lovely in their wedding gown and tuxedo. The ceremony was a simple one, and there was a great gathering of friends and neighbors to witness the ceremony, which was performed by the Rev. R. H. Hays, pastor of the church.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her grandfather, J. Mann, looked lovely in her wedding gown of white satin, falling in graceful folds to the floor. Her embroidered net-veil was arranged in a Juliet cap and long white gloves and white shoes completed the ensemble. Her only ornament was a necklace of crystals, and she carried a bouquet of carnations and chrysanthemums.

Attending her as bridesmaid was her cousin, Miss Allison Geelke, wearing a frock of shell pink silk crepe with coque of turquoise blue, the contrasting note being repeated in the turquoise blue shoes. Her hat was of pink silk mohair and her flowers were a sheaf of snapdragons and chrysanthemums.

Clifton Mounce performed the duties of best man for his brother. The ushers were Gilbert Auchterlonie and James Rennie.

Mrs. J. R. Hewitt presided at the organ and during the signing of the register Mrs. J. Lowrie sang "O Promise Me."

The bridegroom's gift to the bride was a necklace of crystals, and to the groomsmen a pen and pencil set. Following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride, where the happy couple received the congratulations of their friends standing under an archway of flowers and foliage.

Decorations of autumn leaves and flowers were draped throughout the reception rooms and dining-room, where supper was served, the bride's table being centered with a magnificent four-tier wedding cake. The gift of the bride's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. J. Mann.

The honeymoon is being spent in Vancouver and Victoria. The bride is wearing a red and white knitted suit with hat to match and black fur trimmed coat. On their return Mr. and Mrs. Mounce will make their home in Cumberland.

MAY BE NAMED A CARDINAL MACHRAY WILL BE EXAMINED

Churchman-financier to Answer Questions on University Funds

Winnipeg, Oct. 28.—Confined to hospital bed at Stony Mountain penitentiary, John A. Machray, former bursar and chairman of the board of governors of the University of Manitoba, will be examined by a board of inquiry probably next Wednesday.

The former lawyer, churchman and financier is said by physicians to be in condition for a "partial examination" regarding $1,000,000 defalcations in university trust funds, though they warn a commission counsel it must not be too protracted.

DYING FROM CANCER
The Canadian Press was told to-day by B. F. McWilliams, K.C., counsel for the board, that there is some anxiety regarding the health of the aged prisoner, who is slowly dying from cancer of the bladder. The board had intended deferring the interview with Machray until completion of their hearing of other witnesses. But uneasiness over the prisoner's health resulted in the decision to see him some time next week, probably Wednesday.

The exact time and date will be arranged by Mr. McWilliams with the penitentiary warden. Examination of Machray, sentenced to seven years for defalcations of $1,000,000 of college funds, probably will centre on a charge by Isaac Pitblado, K.C., former chairman of the board, and a statement by Mr. Justice Denny, a former partner of the prisoner.

Testifying before the commission, Pitblado declared no authority had ever been given by the board of governors to Machray to sell or dispose of university bonds at his discretion and declared that second giving of the minutes purportedly giving this "carte blanche" authority had been substituted by another sheet.

Mr. Justice Denny, told the board he had never received "one cent" from real estate dealings by Machray, and denied a charge credited to Machray that Mr. Justice Denny had withdrawn his profits from the firm and had left Machray to "bear the load."

He also denied he had ever known until the disclosures last August of any shortages in trust funds held by Machray until he severed his connections in 1914.

Examination of Robert Drummond, controller-general, continued before the board of inquiry when it resumed sittings to-day.

Robert S. White, Who Was a Conservative M.P. in 1898, Emerges From Usual Silence

Canadian Press
Ottawa, Oct. 28.—Emerging from his usual silence in the House, Robert S. White, Conservative member for Mount Royal and one of the grand old men of Parliament, yesterday listed many reasons why he favored the Canadian United Kingdom trade treaty.

Drawing upon parliamentary experience dating back to 1898, he told the House that he was in favor of the Canadian people did not favor the agreement. "It is a step forward. It is a beginning and for the sake of the country let us give it a trial."

From his seat in the front row, a few feet from the Speaker's rostrum, the Mount Royal member shook his finger at the Liberals and attacked their low tariff view.

"This government will never sacrifice Canadian industry on the altar of British Empire trade or any other trade," he declared. "The friends of the world and world trade, the Liberals were 'the friends of every country but their own.'"

The Liberal Party, said Mr. White, apparently still held faint hopes of a reciprocity agreement with the United States.

"Since 1898—and that's a long time ago—the United States has been unwilling to enter into commercial relations with Canada that have been worth a hoot." And he doubted if their attitude had changed.

CENSORSHIP OF PRIVATE WIRES

Associated Press
Madrid, Oct. 28.—The censorship committee of the International Commission of the Red Cross today adopted an article providing for government censorship of private telegrams and radiograms, deemed dangerous to the safety of the state, public order and decency.

The article contained a motion obligating a government to notify senders immediately in cases of partial or complete censorship.

The project had the full support of the British, Canadian, United States and Russian delegations, while the French, German and Italian delegates suggested minor changes.

Edmonton, Oct. 28.—Premier J. E. Brownlee of Alberta to-day was en route to Regina to attend the first of a series of meetings of the premier to consider appointment of a special envoy to China to foster sale of Canadian wheat in the Orient.

Leaving the Saskatoon capital last night, the Alberta premier announced the chief item of business at the Regina meeting would be a "friendly" dropping in on the price of wheat, and advisability of sending an emissary to the Orient to obtain orders for Canadian grain.

Premier Brownlee disclosed the suggestion for such an envoy was originally made to western premiers by Hon. Herbert Marler, Canadian envoy to Japan. One of being such a representative, the premier said, would probably be met from the wheat board surplus fund, which is devoted to advancement of agriculture.

SURRENDERS AFTER DARING ROBBERIES

to shoot him. That was too much for me. I mailed back the cheque I took from the cash register," he told to the astounded officers.

Formally charged by Detective Inspector James Elice with the robbery and warned that anything he might say would be used at his trial, Dykstra replied: "Yes, I know."

Dykstra appeared in police court this morning and was remanded until Monday.

Written statements regarding the two robberies were given by Dykstra to Detectives E. Munro and W. Rawlinson.

Apparently relieved by his confession, Dykstra chatted freely with police officers, answered questions and explained various portions of his statements. He said that he was a native of Holland and came to Canada in search of a position. He was unsuccessful, however, and gradually became hungry, homeless and desperate.

DURING ROBBERY
The robbery of Mr. McLean was particularly daring, for the streets in the vicinity of the jewelry store were thronged with homebound shoppers.

When McLean was alone in the store when a man entered, covered him with an automatic pistol, and forced him to the rear of the premises, where he tied his wrists and ankles with leather straps.

His victim awoke and helpless, the bandit, quickly looted the cash register, then stroled to the street, where he joined the crowd of pedestrians. The jeweler freed himself from his bonds after a struggle and telephoned the police.

Daring also marked the robbery of the Great Northern Ticket Office on the morning of September 3. A number of persons were in the depot waiting-room when a man slipped through the side door of the ticket office, held up M. E. Horsman, ticket agent, and robbed the cash register of nearly $200.

After the robbery the bandit walked quickly from the office and was lost to view when he mingled with a number of pedestrians on Main Street.

On October 24, M. E. Horsman, ticket clerk in the depot office, looked up from a telephone directory he was consulting to see the muzzle of an automatic pistol pointed at him through the bars of the wicket. He leaped to a spot out of line of the weapon's muzzle and the man holding the gun fled.

The marchers were expected to remain in London until November 1 to present a petition to Parliament protesting against the means test in the dole system.

EIGHT IN POLICE COURT
Eight men were arraigned in Marylebone police court to-day on charges growing out of the riots. The first two were convicted of assaulting the police and sentenced to six months at hard labor each. Scores of friends of the accused had assembled in front of the building at an early hour.

In Parliament last night the government promised to consider whether it would permit debate on unemployment during consideration of Imperial trade agreements.

A motion must be introduced in the House of Commons for discussion of the petition and a favorable vote obtained. Political circles considered such a vote highly unlikely.

Sir John Gilmour, Secretary for Home Affairs, made a statement in the House of Commons to-day that yesterday's rioting was not caused by the genuine unemployed but by agitators whose only object was to create disturbance.

TWO NEW IDEAS IN AVIATION

Above are two of aviation's newest contributions to the flying public. At left is a combination automobile-gyroplane recently displayed in Berlin. It will manoeuvre equally as well in the air as on the ground. At right is a reversible plane propeller. It is being developed by a Berkeley, Calif., firm headed by J. H. McCullough, shown in photo. The propeller is controlled from the cockpit and acts as a brake when reversed.

New Factors In Negotiations For World Security

New Import Duty of Four Cents on Raw Copper Proposed

By MORGAN M. BEATTY, Associated Press Cable Editor
New York, Oct. 28.—Five world powers—Great Britain, France, Russia, United States and Japan—were breaking trail to-day toward new alignments intended to promote peace and security.

As reflected in Canadian and Associated Press dispatches from several capitals, their activity also introduced three powerful factors into the international problem. These factors were:

1. Improved relations between Russia and Japan, despite the troublesome Manchuria that lies between them.
2. The proximity of a treaty of non-aggression between France and Russia; and
3. Apparent Anglo-American unity at Geneva, implying that the world's two largest naval powers have reached an agreement in principle to harmonize their views on disarmament.

Moscow reports told of better relations between Japan and Russia, especially affecting their mutual trouble spot, Manchuria. The Russian government has been acting as go-between between Chinese irregular troops and the Japanese government in disrupted Northern Manchuria.

B.C. Grower Wins Apple Championship

Canadian Press
Ottawa, Oct. 28.—English competitors took first, second and third places, in both the dessert and culinary classes at the imperial fruit show, apple section, it was announced by the fruit branch, department of agriculture to-day. James Lowe, Oyama, B.C., was highly commended for his entry in the dessert class.

In the Canadian championship section, Lowe was awarded first prize in each of the following classes: No. 2 (Mcintosh), No. 3 (Jonathan), No. 5 (Delicious), No. 6 (Newtown Pippin), No. 8 (any other market variety). Lowe also receives the Agent-General's Cup.

How to End RHEUMATISM

New Medicine Drives Out Poisons, That Cause Torturing Stiffness, Swelling and Lameness

You cannot get rid of rheumatic aches and pains, Neuritis, lame knotted muscles and stiff swollen joints till you drive from your system the irritating poisons that cause rheumatism. External treatments only give temporary relief.

What you need is RU-MA, the new internal medicine that acts on the liver, kidneys and blood and expels through the natural channels of elimination, these dangerous poisons. No long waiting for your suffering to stop—RU-MA cures pain first day—and so quickly and safely ends stiffening, crippling lameness and torturing pain that MacFarlane and Vancouver Drug Store urge every rheumatic sufferer to get a bottle to-day. They guarantee it.

TRADE TREATIES IN COMMITTEE

Ottawa Agreements Pass Second Reading in British House of Commons

Canadian Press Cable
London, Oct. 28.—House of Commons to-day pursued debate on the government's bill to implement the Ottawa conference trade agreements with the Dominions virtually assured there would be no further opposition from the ranks of the Labour Party.

The bill passed into committee stage after being given second reading last night by an enormous majority and Laborites asked that proceedings be shortened as far as possible to leave more time for consideration of the unemployment problem.

Meanwhile the House was given a new tariff to consider. Walter Runciman announced a plan to-night to establish as soon as possible a four-cent-a-pound import duty on raw copper which would aid in establishing a supply of the metal in the empire sufficient to meet British needs.

Consideration of a similar duty on electrolytic copper, a purer form which many British manufacturers prefer, was left in abeyance for the moment until a joint committee of producers and consumers in the empire shall decide that the supply available is sufficient in quantity and quality to meet all requirements.

Mr. Runciman admitted the proposed duty would virtually prohibit imports of the red metal from foreign countries but intimated this was the desire of British consumers.

The new measure was seen as promising considerable aid to copper producers in such empire countries as Canada, Australia and South Africa.

SYNOD DEBATES DEPLETED FUND

Canadian-wide Appeal to Anglicans to Meet Machray Defalcations

Canadian Press
Toronto, Oct. 28.—Members of the Church of England in Canada to-day are faced with the necessity of providing funds to carry on the work of the church in the ecclesiastical province of Rupert's Land.

As a result of protracted discussion by the executive council of the general synod of the church yesterday it is proposed to replenish the funds depleted by John A. Machray, K.C., honorary treasurer of the year, by a synod, by a nation-wide appeal to Anglicans.

Under the provisions of a resolution passed by the executive council an appeal will be made to the church at large to provide sufficient funds to replace the capital funds of Rupert's Land, while the province will be asked to provide its own diocesan funds impaired by the defalcations. The bishops and clergy of the church as a whole will be called on to provide the interests on the province's beneficiary funds and to provide the pensions payable under the newly-adopted general synod pension plan, for a period of three years.

According to a financial statement presented at the meeting the capital funds lost are estimated at $758,642.

The meeting of the council yesterday was presided over by most Rev. Clare L. Worrell, primate of all Canada. Approximately 100 delegates, including members of the house of bishops, attending.

SAMUEL INSULL JR.

ON WAY TO STATES

Athens, Greece, Oct. 28.—Samuel Insull Jr., informed his father by cable yesterday that he is leaving London to-morrow for the United States, where he is expected to be received as vice-president of the Insull Utilities Companies. The younger Insull had intended to come here and join his father, whose extradition is sought on an indictment in Chicago charging him with embezzlement and larceny in connection with the collapse of his interests.

LAYTON QUILTS WORLD MEETING

Leading British Liberal Has "Serious Difference" With British Government

London, Oct. 28.—Sir Walter Layton, noted economist and closely connected with the intellectual leadership of the Liberal party in Great Britain, announced his resignation Tuesday from the preparatory committee of the World-Economic Conference, because of a "serious difference of opinion" between himself and the British government.

He said he had differed with Rt. Hon. Neville Chamberlain, Chancellor of the Exchequer, on "what further action is required in order to restore reasonable freedom to the movement of international trade."

In a letter to Premier MacDonald, Sir Walter wrote: "The government view is that the desired result can be obtained through individual negotiations with foreign countries within limits set by the Ottawa agreements and subject to strict insistence on our 'most favored nation' rights."

"Judging from past experience, however, I fear the method of bilateral negotiation will make very little impression on the protectionist system of the world, as a whole, as it has grown up since the war."

UNEMPLOYMENT WORRIES PRINCE

Question Rarely Out of His Mind, He Says in Worcester

Associated Press
Worcester, England, Oct. 28.—The Prince of Wales participating in the opening of a new bridge across the river Severn to-day voiced his concern with the plight of the unemployed. "Unfortunately," he said in his dedicatory speech, "in these days the care of our fellow citizens is not limited to protection of their health. Over every town and every county of England the terrible problem of unemployment is casting its shadow."

"I need not tell you that the question is rarely out of my mind of how to restore the old level of employment and how best to care for those for whom there is no work of their own, no work can yet be found."

200,000 YOUTHS ROAMING STATES

Associated Press
New York, Oct. 28.—With a warning that "youth cannot wait for a return of better days," Newton D. Baker Wednesday made public the results of a national survey in which it was estimated there are 200,000 children, most of them under twenty years of age, who are wandering about the United States seeking a place where they can earn a living.

Baker is chairman of the welfare and relief mobilization of 1932, under whose auspices the data was compiled.

FRENCH SEEK HIGHER WHEAT

Canadian Press
Paris, Oct. 28.—While Canadian farmers see his wheat down to the 50 cent bushel mark, French wheat farmers, still getting at a bushel or a little higher, are pressing the government hard for action to put prices back on the higher levels they enjoyed until a few months ago.

Girl Mother Fights To Retain Daughter

Los Angeles, Oct. 28.—Mrs. Ruth Borman, seventeen-year-old mother, was found at a residence in Newhall, Los Angeles suburb, yesterday with her three-year-old daughter, Nancy Ruth Buchanan, who was kidnapped yesterday from the home of her guardian, Mrs. Violet C. Buchanan, wealthy Los Angeles resident, whose efforts to adopt the girl had been opposed by the mother.

M. E. Warner, twenty-four, arrested at a San Fernando residence to-day, told police, authorities said, that he aided Mrs. Borman yesterday in the kidnapping of the child.

U.S. SOLDIERS FACE CHARGE

Honolulu, Oct. 28.—Army official yesterday investigated the case against two enlisted men, whom they charged with stealing confidential documents and attempting to dispose of them to a "supposed representative of a foreign power." The men, whose names were withheld, were arrested yesterday after, officials said, they returned the missing documents to an investigator who represented himself as being the emissary of a foreign power, and who gave the men $100 in marked money.

STRAW VOTE CONTINUES TO GIVE ROOSEVELT A GOOD LEAD

One week from to-day The Literary Digest's straw vote on the presidential election in the United States will close and what it shows may or may not reflect the action the voters will take when they go to the polls on November 8. As matters stand now—and it is a record unofficial ballot in a presidential election campaign—Mr. Hoover's vote is 1,095,274 and Mr. Roosevelt has 1,648,237 votes to his credit. Since last week 296,698 votes have been cast and Mr. Roosevelt has increased his majority from 500,079 to 552,963. From a percentage point of view, President Hoover can claim 37.33 of what is termed the semi-final total compared with Mr. Roosevelt's 56.19. The Electoral College votes on the basis of the ballot has not changed since last week. It stands at fifty-seven for Mr. Hoover and 474 for Mr. Roosevelt. Here are the details of the vote:

State	Hoover	Roosevelt
Alabama	11	10
Arizona	9	10
Arkansas	22	10
California	22	10
Colorado	6	10
Connecticut	8	10
Delaware	3	10
Dist. of Columbia	3	10
Florida	7	10
Georgia	12	10
Idaho	4	10
Illinois	29	10
Indiana	14	10
Iowa	22	10
Kansas	9	10
Kentucky	11	10
Louisiana	10	10
Maine	5	10
Maryland	17	10
Massachusetts	19	10
Michigan	11	10
Minnesota	15	10
Mississippi	9	10
Missouri	15	10
Montana	4	10
Nebraska	7	10
Nevada	3	10
New Hampshire	4	10
New Jersey	16	10
New Mexico	3	10
New York	47	10
North Carolina	13	10
North Dakota	4	10
Ohio	26	10
Oklahoma	11	10
Oregon	3	10
Pennsylvania	36	10
Rhode Island	4	10
South Carolina	4	10
South Dakota	4	10
Tennessee	11	10
Texas	23	10
Vermont	3	10
Virginia	11	10
Washington	8	10
West Virginia	8	10
Wisconsin	12	10
Wyoming	3	10
State Unknown	—	10
Totals	531	531

It will be noted from the above that the two states of New York and Pennsylvania, with a combined vote in the Electoral College of eighty-three, are still giving Mr. Roosevelt a majority. In New York, however, the majority which the Democrat standard-bearer had last week of 10,632 has dropped this week to 9,239. In the stronghold of high protection—the state of Mr. Andrew Mellon—on the other hand, Mr. Roosevelt's majority of 30,662 of last week has been increased to 31,169. In the state of Texas, which gave Mr. Hoover a majority over Al. Smith in 1928, the Democrat candidate seems to be having it all his own way. The President's state of California still is giving him the cold shoulder. Indeed, if the straw vote so far is any indication of how the political wind is blowing in the United States, the tenancy of the White House will undergo a change next March—the month following an election in which the new President is inaugurated.

PROPHETS NO LONGER HONORED IN ANY COUNTRY

Dean Quainton says if he were in politics he would have kept a list of the predictions made by politicians in the last two years. He thinks such a record would have been enlightening. This is true enough, but a record of the predictions made by both politicians, and prominent people who are not politicians, in the last three years would be much more enlightening, especially those prophets and prophecies which have dealt with the causes, consequences and prospects of the peculiar conditions which have dominated the world in recent times.

This amplified record would be enlightening in many aspects. It would be replete with disillusionment. It would disclose the feet of clay of many popular, world-renowned idols. It would show that ignorance and folly are not the exclusive heritage of the poor and humble, but that they flourish in all classes of society. Some of the sorriest predictions have come from eminent captains of industry, heads of nations and governments, professors of political science and leaders in literature, art and science. Some have been disinterested. Others are not, being in the nature of doses of soothing syrup—which not only have not soothed but have not even been treated by the world with ordinary respect. Never has humanity been so sceptical and cynical in its reaction to the attempts of political leaders to supply its needs by bunk and ballyhoo as it is to-day. And never have bunnies and ballyhoos been so pitifully futile as they are now.

President Hoover, in trying to vindicate his record, speaks to a prejudiced audience, because the public remembers that his numerous predictions of a successful outcome of his policies have been disastrously falsified by the events. What the public wants is an appreciation of its greatest need, and actual performance that assures early relief. In Great Britain, while the House of Lords with characteristic dignity was debating trade agreements and their prospects—which can not possibly be made clear for several years—fifty thousand needy people in immediate need were marching upon London. In fact, nobody in want pays any attention to the rosy predictions of affluence—some day—in consequence of any governmental trade policies. What the public is most concerned in is what is being done now, not what is being said, promised or predicted now. If professional prophets and promoters would only appreciate the fact that the public mind now is a vastly different thing from the credulous complex upon which they used to operate, that it is "from Missouri" in respect of almost every proposition under the sun, they would keep discreetly quiet.

One of the phenomena of these times is the failure of glib prophets to realize how quickly their prophecies are tried out and in most cases are found to be exploded, and they themselves hopelessly discredited; how soon the acid test of stern reality follows promises and predictions. Sane leaders in this day, like Mr. Montagu Norman, for instance, make no promises or forecasts. They know nobody would credit them if they did, that everybody has been so saturated with the hypocrisies of bunk and ballyhoo that he or she can not be duped any more. The only thing the public is concerned with is present positive policy and its immediate effect upon the elemental problems with which it personally is concerned. The day of ballyhoo is over. Why waste time and money in trying to galvanize the pitiable remains into life?

SEPARATING THE ECONOMIC WHEAT FROM THE ECONOMIC TARES

The following two paragraphs are from a Canadian and Associated Press cable from London to The Times to-day: "Three days of debate on the unemployment problem will finish in the House of Commons next Friday, several days earlier than had been planned. The House decided this afternoon to terminate the debate on the Ottawa agreements on Thursday and to go on with the unemployment issue."

The demonstration in Hyde Park and in the West End yesterday evidently brought it home to the members of Parliament that, despite the merits of the Ottawa agreements, there is a much more pressing problem awaiting solution than the diversion of business from nearly two billions of foreign peoples to the twenty-five million white people outside the British Isles who belong to the Britannic Commonwealth of Nations.

The percentage of unemployed in Canada differs very little from that of Great Britain; but the Bennett government has had to confess through its Minister of Labor that it has no specific programme for dealing with it. If the administration really wants to avert what may easily become an acute situation this winter, it had better take some advice and devote some of the time of Parliament to a careful discussion of the matter.

WHAT OTHER PAPERS SAY

CHICAGO
 The Christian Science Monitor

Mayor Cermak of Chicago has just told Londoners that with the same number of policemen used by the English capital Chicago could clean out every one of its criminals. Does he mean to imply it is possible that there is some other explanation of the so-called crime wave besides prohibition?

EXPENSIVE SCHOOL BOOKS
 Le Soleil, Quebec

School books are a very expensive item in the family budget. Every year each scholar has his arms filled with new books, and the price seems to be high enough to enable the editors to realize handsome profits. This is a province of large families. It often happens that five or six children go to school from the same home simultaneously. In the course of the last quarter of a century this epidemic of superfluous manuals has developed. Many of us went to school thirty years ago. In those days the books were very simple and few, but they gained in quality what they lacked in quantity. Men who have shone in Canadian letters did their elementary course with one single French grammar, which did not prevent them from writing a bit better than many of our modern scholars trained with five or six text books for the same subject.

CANADA TOO

Garet Garret in The Saturday Evening Post

With a national income of not more than $60,000,000 this year, we are obliged to buy actually more government than we bought with a national income of nearly $90,000,000 in 1929; moreover, in this depression we are obliged to buy a good deal of it on the deferred-payment plan. That is what it means to sell bonds for public revenue. All of it has sometimes to be paid for out of taxes; and even those who may not pay these future taxes directly will pay them, nevertheless, indirectly in the cost of the houses they rent, the food they eat, the clothes they wear, the gas they burn in their motor cars—in every item of the cost of getting born, growing up, getting old, even dying. It is imperative to reduce the cost of government by measure—that is, to make the tax dollar buy more than before, to make sure it buys what it purports to buy, to get our money's worth in any case. But all of that will be only like pruning the tree, for better growth hereafter, unless we settle what public credit is for in principle and limit in a drastic manner the ferocious growth of government.

A THOUGHT

Thus saith the Lord, Ye shall not go up, nor fight, against your brethren: return every man to his house: for this thing is done of me. And they obeyed the words of the Lord and returned from going against Jerusalem. —Chronicles 2 x 4.

Obedience sums up our entire duty.—Hosae Ballou.

Loose Ends

One step enough for me—bankers and hymns—substance and shadows—
 —a valuable recipe against intellectual infection—and an elephant in my garden.

By H. B. W.

THE PUBLIC'S reaction to things is a source of continual wonderment, even to me, who have almost ceased now to wonder at anything. For about five years now the best economists, men like Fisher and Fisher, have kept warning the world that if it didn't change its style, it would come a terrific cropper. Nobody paid any attention. Right up to this point the world has listened to the voice of politics and the luncheon club, repeating the old, old formula that everything was going to be all right next week or next month, at the latest. But when Mr. Montagu Norman, governor of the Bank of England, told a meeting in London last week that he couldn't foresee the end of this thing, that he didn't know what was going to happen and that, in the words of the old hymn "One step enough for me," why, then the public everywhere seems to have heard this as a sudden revelation from on high. Not less than thirty men have stopped me in the last week to repeat Norman's remarks and echo in a hollow voice "One step enough for me." It is becoming a kind of slogan, a new economic dogma; and, as a result, it is interesting to see how many of us will only take one step toward sanity that will be more than we have done since the depression started.

ANYWAY, MOST people seem to think that Norman's speech was an utterance of despair. Perhaps it was. I would expect it from a banker in a time like this, a banker having been defined by a writing friend of mine as a fellow who breaks down and weeps when you show him $2 in real money. Perhaps it was despair, but it doesn't depress me in the least. It cheers me up. I have been waiting a long time for the men in control of civilization can't go back on some magic carpet to the good old days, it is only then that we are likely to do the things that will have to be done in the end.

DEEP STUFF

ON THE WHOLE, though, I suspect that Norman is a bit pessimistic. Bankers are likely to be, because they never see anything but the shadow of things. They never feel anything but the shell of actuality. At no point does their business bring them face to face with actual life and human beings. That, basically, is the disease which is consuming us—the shadow of things, currency, promissory notes, credit and all the paraphernalia of banking are the only valuable articles left in the world. Real wealth, things you can eat and wear and burn, has ceased to be valuable at all. Now the financiers find all the shadow in their hands and no way of using it, because the substance won't move from one person to another. It makes them feel very low. It causes them to deliver despairing speeches. It even makes them quote hymns, which is a supreme concession to the difficulties of these days.

BUT I DO NOT feel so low as that. I will not make speeches or quote hymns (even if I could remember any). Because so long as there is plenty of real wealth in the world I feel confident that the shadow cannot permanently stand in the way. Some day, somehow, men will find means of moving the substance back and forth between them, as they require it. No shadow can ultimately prevent them.

GREAT MAN

ONE OF THE biggest big business men of Vancouver, a fellow rated at several millions, bared his soul to me to-day. He said he was sick of his life, sick of the shrinkage of his millions. He said he had been far happier when he was getting $17 a week as a clerk in a clothing store. He said he wished everybody could start over again on an equal basis and he would take his chance with the rest. This, I thought, would be an informative experiment but unlikely. I suspect that if we all started again at scratch, a lot of fellows who imagine they always have had the edge over the rest of us might find that they only had the luck.

BUT THAT is not what I wanted to tell you. I wanted to tell you, so you may be able to do it, too, how I have learned by long practice to listen to great men, to big men, to men rated at several millions, without any bodily discomfort. Mine, I used to suffer, I used to squirm and wriggle in my seat and want to shriek aloud; not because most of these fellows' notions were too childish even for me, but because they kept repeating them again and again, and they are more heart-broken over the loss of a few dollars of a working man over the loss of a job. Well, I have learned now to listen by the hour without ever hearing. I have schooled myself so that if I look hard at the very tip of the fellow's nose, where it is shiny, I can concentrate myself into a kind of a trance without changing my expression in the least. I can think about something else for a whole hour and never hear a word, and yet, if long practice I can keep saying, "Really?—oh, really?"—the most natural tone of voice.

IN FACT, I write most of this column while listening to people talk and apparently hearing what they say. In these times, when most people are talking nonsense and the bigger they are, the more nonsensical they are, this faculty is invaluable. It should be taught in all the schools. What every man must have now-a-days, if he wants to know the truth, is the ability not to remember, but to forget not to listen, but to read up his mind against infection. And I tell you all this so that you may do so when you read this column.

AN ELEPHANT

AT THIS exact point, an Indian chief, with a hideous painted face, and an elephant with a long trunk, staggered into my garden and rather interrupted the flow of my thoughts. An Indian chief and an elephant in your garden are likely to disturb even a mind accustomed to sea-leveling itself up against the infection of millionaires. This Indian chief and his elephant immediately started to roll in the great piles of oak leaves which have been laboriously gathered together by the little girl from next door for the sole purpose of rolling and jumping. They rolled and jumped and whooped and the little boy from next door, who is just sixteen months old, started to roll down the hill. In the brown knitted suit which makes him look exactly like a brownie, and watched them with blank amazement. He looked like a banker or a millionaire regarding the economic system. He followed the Indian chief and the elephant around for a long time, uttering vague sounds of despair like a governor of the Bank of England who is reduced to quoting hymns, but he couldn't make it out at all. One step was enough for him, or rather too much, since he usually fell down on his face before he could take a second.

PROBABLY IF HE had been a great financier, looking in terror at the frowning mask which covers the face of things just now, he would have staggered away, singing a hymn. But the little boy from next door isn't educated yet. With a clear and ruthless logic, he followed the elephant and the Indian chief to the Indian chief and the elephant grasped the masks which hid their real faces, and tore them off. And there was the little girl from next door and her friend Angus from down the street. They had only been anticipating Halloween by a few days. I must say I was relieved. An Indian chief is harmless enough, but an elephant is no use in a rock garden. And now the little girl from next door and her friend Angus, working in tandem between the leaves, are carting the little boy from next door off in a wheelbarrow, and he got off the elephant's back on backwards, with the trunk down his back.

 OCTOBER 28, 1907

From The Times files.
 Weather Forecast—Victoria and vicinity: Light or moderate winds, chiefly cloudy and cool with rain to-night or Tuesday.

The burning of Lieutenant-Governor Dumas's fine yacht Thistle on May 24, this year, is recalled by the arrival of the United States Government hydrographic survey steamship McArthur at this port, bringing the last and only photograph of the burning vessel taken just before she plunged to the bottom.

Among the passengers on the Nippon Yusen Kaisha steamship Aki Maru, which will call here on her way from Seattle to the Orient to-morrow, will be one of Japan's most distinguished statesmen, the person of Gen. Baron Kwanjiro Nishi, who is returning to Tokyo after accompanying Prince Fushimi to England, and visiting the large commercial houses.

Again a hard struggle the J.B.A.A. won out in the association football league match at Beacon Hill on Saturday. It was perhaps the best contested match yet, and at one time it looked as if the winners would go down to defeat before the skillful combination work of the Bequith team. Up to half time the game belonged to the village lads, but after that things changed and the result that the game concluded with a score of 5 to 2 in favor of the Bays.

The Nanaimo Hornets handed the Victoria team a 19 to 3 defeat on Saturday afternoon in one of the finest rugby games so far this season. The final score does not indicate the brand of rugby played.

After being delayed by fog for several hours in the Straits, R.M.S. Mowens reached port this morning, bringing a big list of passengers and a large cargo of general freight.

The steamship Cottage City, which left Seattle on Saturday night for Lagan, has added another port of call to its list. The Cottage City will be the first American-owned ship to touch at Prince Rupert, B.C. The Pacific Coast Steamship Company has added the Canadian port to its route, believing there is sufficient business to warrant a regular steamship service there.

VACCINATION

To the Editor:—It may be of interest to those opposed to vaccination for smallpox to note that the town of Brighton, in Sussex, has through its medical officer—asked for a repeal of the Vaccination Act, and a number of other authorities have supported the proposal. The idea is to make vaccination voluntary, not compulsory, and so far there has only been one voice raised in opposition to the request.

FOR WHITE SEAMEN

To the Editor:—Recently two well-known steamships, City of Vancouver and City of Victoria, received a subsidy from the Dominion Government to assist them to develop Canadian commerce from this Coast to the Orient. These two ships, widely-travelled, well-known, and with the best of the equipment of deck and engine room officers, summer security by Chinese, while hundreds of white seamen, are destined in the two cities they are named after.

If the provincial government would protest this state of affairs and demand the owners of these ships to carry 100 per cent British Columbia crews on their vessels, so that the government subsidized payrolls would all be circulated in Canada, it would greatly assist in basing the depressed conditions in basing in Vancouver and Victoria.

"CENTENARY"

To the Editor:—Apropos of the recent controversy on Dean Quainton's pronunciation of "centenary," I have often been puzzled by his way of saying "e-volution." For a while all the dictionaries I have consulted render "e-volution," with the accent on the first syllable as in "ever." I have no doubt that his good old friend, Professor Oulton, would pronounce it as "devi-ution," or the devil's own solution of the problem of creation. Anyhow, I should be pleased if some good soul will tell me whether the learned sound of ordinary dubs like myself are right in our different ways of saying "e-volution." If the Dean is right, then applying the analogy to words with a similar beginning I would observe: The Dean is clever, But did you ever hear of such pronunciation? Why no, never.

KIDD COMMITTEE REPORT

To the Editor:—The report of the Kidd committee has been subjected to criticism on the grounds that it contains no suggestion that the rate of interest being paid on provincial borrowings should be reduced to approximately the rate of the Dominion. If you will please refer to the report you will find that this criticism is without foundation. Paragraphs thirty and thirty-one read as follows: "It is interesting to note that the May committee's report was published just a year ago when the financial position of Great Britain was precarious. Since that date a balanced budget has been produced, and last week it was announced that the bank rate is now 2 per cent. The conversion of £2,000,000,000 of public debt from a 5 per cent to a 3½ per cent basis is in progress. It does not require much imagination to appreciate the benefits to industries and the tax-paying public generally of the foregoing reductions resulting from a balanced budget."

"Our recommendation is to follow this example. As we have already indicated, increased taxation is impossible, and therefore, the only alternative is to reduce expenditures as recommended in the succeeding chapters of this report."

Paragraphs thirty and thirty-one can mean only one thing—that the rate of interest should be reduced, but that before this can be accomplished the province has got to prove to the world at large that it is living within its means.

Nor does the report recommend the closing of the University of British Columbia. Paragraph 15 states: "The estimated provincial expenditure for the year ending March 31, 1933, include a grant of $250,000 for the university, which in our opinion the government was unable to continue next year. What effect the discontinuance of this grant will have on its ability to maintain its existence, we cannot say without an examination of the affairs of the university, which is outside the scope of our inquiry. Should it eventually be found that the financial resources of the university are so meagre as to impair its efficiency, the question will have to be considered whether it may not be in the best interests of the state to close the university and rely on the proposal contained in paragraph 163 to establish scholarships to furnish the means of attending university elsewhere in the Dominion."

MOVING PICTURE WORK

To the Editor:—In reply to Mrs. Wilkinson's letter in yesterday's Times we feel that, in view of the statement made in this week's issue of "Tune In," neither Mrs. Wilkinson nor the Professional Photographers' Association could have read this statement, otherwise they would be in possession of the facts.

As we have before stated, all aspirations for motion picture work with whom we have been in contact have been clearly informed that it is entirely optional as to whether they submit their photographs through "Tune In" or not. They have been informed that they may submit their photographs direct to the Commonwealth Productions Limited if they wish, but we have offered them the opportunity to have their photographs taken free of charge should they care to do so. It is unnecessary for Mrs. Wilkinson to have said that there was no need to pay a subscription to a radio paper because we have made this clearly understood (Turn to Page 18, Col. 1).

SEARCH FOR MISSION HIGH SCHOOL BOY

Canadian Press
Whitby, Oct. 28.—A wide search is in progress to-day for fifteen-year-old Ross Wilson, high school student who has been missing since Wednesday.
A note which read goodbye all, was found tied to the boy's bicycle, but his father claims the writing is not that of his son's. His parents can offer no explanation for his disappearance.

FIRST CABIN AUTOGYRO HOLDS FOUR

Here is the first cabin autogyro completed in the United States. Looking even queerer than the open gyro job, this ship will accommodate four. It was built at Willow Grove, Pa., and is driven by a 420-horsepower radial engine.

The BEST way to stop CONSTIPATION

Nothing like
Fruit-a-ties

"I was in a very bad
way with constipation. My stomach was off-color and I kept having headaches after breakfast.
Quite frequently I had severe pains in my joints and muscles. The general effect was very depressing. Indeed, I felt so wretched that I was about to give up work. Today my health is excellent and I certainly feel that 'Fruita-ties' played a large part in bringing this about.
They toned up my entire system."

MOTHER-IN-LAW

Nags
Young Bride

Young Alice Robinson had been married seven months—at first all went well, then trouble started. Her husband's mother came in one night to supper and, in the innocent way mothers-in-law have, made a critical remark about the table cloth. Perhaps it wasn't just as white and gleaming as it might have been, but Alice had worked hard over that table cloth just last washday and felt very hurt in consequence.

But Wise Mother Prevents Trouble

Next day Alice asked her own mother to come over and see her and tearfully explained her trouble. "I tried so hard to have everything looking nice—and then she said something about the cloth." Her mother looked at the tablecloth with a discerning eye. "Alice, my child, you may be trying hard, but I think I can tell you an easier way to get things clean. I'll tell you what I do.

"First, I use a good soap. I'd advise you to use the brand I always buy—Pearl White Naphtha.
You'll find it a good practical laundry soap and a lot more economical than most. Soap your clothes and put them to soak overnight in cold water. You will find that, as the water temperature rises to the heat of the room, more dirt is loosened than would be if the water were cooling. In the morning, rinse your clothes thoroughly in warm water and you'll never have any more troubles with your wash."

Thousands of women have now learned this valuable laundry secret. Get the Pearl habit yourself—Pearl means efficient work in less time and at less cost. That's something to remember these days.

Over 3000 cakes of Pearl Soap are used by Canadian housewives every hour

INSECT BITES FORCE FAMOUS SWIMMER OUT

By Reuters
London — Mrs. Phillipson, better known as Marie Braun, the twenty-year-old Dutch girl, who won the 100-metre backstroke title at the 1928
Olympic Games at Amsterdam and who finished second in the Olympic 400-metre freestyle the same year, may never swim again.

Marie Braun, whose mother was the head of a swimming bath at Rotterdam began swimming at the age of two, and she was only three when she took part in her first competition. At the age of sixteen she won the European 400-metre freestyle at Bologna in Italy in 1927.

The young Dutch girl went on from victory to victory until she became the holder of several world records. She was well known in England on account of her many duels with Miss Joyce Cooper, the famous British swimmer.

Last year Marie Braun won the European title in the 100-metre backstroke and 400-metre freestyle and she went to the Olympic Games at Los Angeles this year to defend her title.
She finished second to the American crack, Miss Helen Madison, in the first round of the 400-metre freestyle.
In the 100-metre backstroke she won her first heat in the first round. Then came the tragedy which has probably ended her career. She was badly bitten by an insect. Blood poisoning set in followed by a bad fever. Mrs. Marie Phillipson could not therefore compete in either final, which were won, the 400-metre freestyle by Miss Madison and the 100-metre backstroke by another world record holder, Miss Kleanor Holm, also of America.

Marie Braun has been ill ever since and she has only now been able to leave hospital. She is coming back via England to her native country. So weak is she that it seems probable that she will have to fly from Liverpool to native home at Rotterdam.

Saving the Camera From Fooling Self

Noble Romans
smoked pipes in
"The Sign of the Cross"

Bald heads
powdered

Hollywood Oct. 28.—Over at Paramount... all who can go there nowadays to watch Cecil DeMille filming "The Sign of the Cross"...

Despite the fact Nero burns Rome and fiddles merrily the while, the problem of smoking is a serious one.
Cigars and cigarettes were unknown to the noble Roman and butts along the Apollon Way would prove a sad anachronism.

So you are treated to the spectacle of the citizenry puffing a weird assortment of pipes... or smoking nothing at all.

Because sound and sight recording is painfully accurate, special defences must be made against mistakes...
Short-hand experts take down every word spoken in a rehearsal and typist afterwards to see that there is no misuse or transposition of words which escape the ear of the director.

There are all sorts of sound problems popping up continually...
stiff boomed shouts have been banned
since the screenies started to talk.
They act as sounding boards, throwing voices back into the microphone.

There's one man whose sole ambition in life is to wander about the sets hunting up squeaks in chairs and click and ciling them out of existence.
And bald heads require special treatment... They're given a nice coating of powder before they're treated to the set, so that there is no reflection from the shiny polls under the bright lights.

esting facts about John Barrymore?

BAD NEWS, GIRLS

Girls who are working at men's jobs will not inspire any heart throbs in Count Ulrich Kinsky (above) or any man who belongs to the International Masculine League which he heads. For the members of the League, organized in Vienna—are pledged not to marry women who occupy business positions—that, "rightfully" should be filled by men.

INTEREST PILES TAX BURDENS

Governments of Canada Borrow $34 For Every $100 Received in Taxes

Toronto, Oct. 28.—Canadian governments have been spending $134 for every $100 of income, according to W. Sanford Evans, Winnipeg statistician, who has been conducting a series of researches into the cost of government for the Canadian Chamber of Commerce. His difference, says Mr. Evans, has been added to debt.

This average represents also approximately the relative expenditures of the Dominion. Provincial governments have spent $152 for every $100 of income. Municipal governments, with their more restricted credit, have not increased debt in the same proportion, having spent $124 for every $100 of income.

These calculations are based on a comparison of total income with increase in gross direct liabilities. MUST BE REPAYED

According to Mr. Evans, whose report was issued this week by C.W. L. McGregor, chairman of the national committee of business on public finance, money borrowed by governments creates a direct charge on income for interest and amortization, must be repaid. Almost all direct liabilities of government are for money borrowed for definite terms at stated rates of interest. If provision for repayment out of income "it not" otherwise money must be borrowed to refund. Interest continues a fixed annual charge.

Interest paid in 1930-31 was $121,289,844 or actually appreciably greater than total consolidated fund expenditures for all purposes in 1912-13, of $112,059,837.

Total revenues of the Dominion from 1911-12 to have paid the interest bill of 1930-31.

MUCH LARGER SHARE

In 1930-31 interest payments by the Dominion were over 1½ times as great as in 1912-13. This ratio, of course, reflects an increase in average interest rate, because of heavy borrowings when money was dear, as well as the increase in debt.

In 1930-31 interest payments constituted over 31 per cent of all Consolidated Fund charges, whereas in 1912-13 they were only 11½ per cent of charges one-third as great.

Provinces and municipalities do not aggregate all interest charges on their direct liabilities in one account, as does the Dominion, and therefore figures for these governments are not corresponding to those above cannot be given. Their positions are, however, similar; slightly more extreme in some respects in the case of the provinces in 1930-31 would have met all their ordinary expenditures as recently as 1916-17.

WHAT IS REASONABLE TERM?

If proportionate spending continues, in an easily calculable number of years even present total revenues would not be adequate for interest charges alone.

For repayment of debt, still further real financial obligation exists. Borrowed money must be repaid and repayment should be within the period of effective service of the investment.

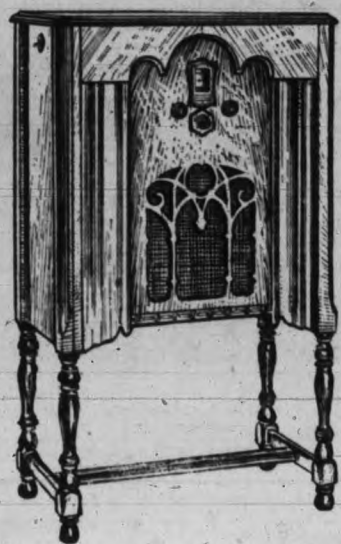

On this principle, what is a reasonable term within which existing debts should be liquidated?

They cover objects ranging from funding current deficits, or grading roads, to the defence of national interests in war. Would a fair average of effective service be twenty years, twenty-five years, thirty years?

If thirty years, then the interest charge of the Dominion for 1930-31 of $121,289,844 should be increased by a little over one-third, or by some $43,000,000 of sinking fund, to represent the real annual charge upon income for service of the debt.

The extent to which the various governments are now meeting sinking fund requirements can be determined only after special inquiry, but it should be realized that proper debt charges against income are much heavier than the figures of interest alone.

EX-SPY ARRESTED

European countries again are making a football of Friedrich Lincoln, above, who was convicted of spying in England for Germany during the World War and whose part in Balkan intrigue after the war made him persona non grata to most European governments. Arrested at Brussels while traveling to him at Chao Kung, Buddhist monk, Lincoln was to be deported to Germany.

MAMMOTH TEETH DUG UP IN EAST

Five Molars and Bone Fragments Are Estimated to Be 25,000 Years Old

Philadelphia, Oct. 28.—Discovery on a golf course near Blackwood, N.J., of five teeth and several bone fragments of the woolly mammoth, constituting the largest single find of its kind ever recorded in the eastern United States, is announced by the Academy of Natural Sciences of Philadelphia. This species, the elephant primigenius, the smallest of three types of the true elephant that once lived in North America, is assigned by paleontologists to the Pleistocene age, at least 25,000 years old.

The newly found teeth and bones, according to officials of the academy, "offer the most impressive evidence to date of the mammoth's existence in this region, where it fed on the vegetation nourished by water from the melting ice cap which covered the northern part of New Jersey and extended across northern Pennsylvania and into the north Pacific Coast."

TEETH WELL PRESERVED
The teeth, the smallest of which measures about three by five by seven inches and the largest four by five and a half by nine, weigh from three and a quarter to six and three-quarters pound each and are in a good state of preservation. Numerous thin enamel ridges, clearly visible after many centuries of burial, traverse the chewing surface and the remains of several roots ranging up to two inches in length and as big as a man's finger are attached to one of the grinders.

Academy officials said there was no way of determining to how many animals the five teeth belonged. It has been established that the mammoth was equipped with four grinders, two above and two below.

The first of the teeth and bone fragments were brought to the attention of the academy some weeks ago by Harry W. Bealer, president of the Hidden Lake Country Club, after a pair had been excavated by steam shovel during the construction of a golf course at the club's property in New Jersey, about twelve miles southeast of this city. A workman's curiosity led to the ultimate identification of the teeth by Edgar B. Howard of the department of vertebrate zoology at the academy.

Further search near the same spot, which once was the bed of a fairly wide creek and which was being excavated for a "water hazard between the sixth and seventh holes of the golf course, led to the finding of the other teeth and bone fragments.

SINGLE TEETH FOUND PREVIOUSLY
The importance of the find, the Academy statement said, "may be gauged by the fact that prior to this discovery not more than one tooth had been found in any given locality in the eastern United States. Those authentically recorded from New Jersey and Pennsylvania are as follows: One at Trenton and one near North Plainfield, N.J., and in Pennsylvania, one near Brookfield, Toga County, one at Chadds Ford, which long has been in the collections of the Academy of Natural Sciences; one at Harvey, Greene County; one at Lone Pine, Washington County, and one at Beaver Dam, Erie County."

The woolly mammoth, while being the smallest of the three species of true elephants and once lived on this continent, stood nearly ten feet high at the shoulders and its shaggy coat added to its bulky appearance. Its tusks, curling back and outward, were longer than those of modern elephants in Asia and Africa.

"According to the best authorities in paleontology," the academy stated, "this elephant primigenius was an immigrant from Siberia, which crossed into Alaska when a land bridge is supposed to have joined Asia with this continent. It is the species of which complete and perfectly preserved specimens, with flesh, hide and hair intact, have been found frozen in the gravels of Northern Siberia."

"In the pleistocene epoch this mammoth was common in Alaska, British Columbia and across the northern United States to the Atlantic Coast. It was well adapted to the cold which came from the great ice cap that was slowly melting away from the northern half of North America, being covered with a dense coat of hair. Food found in the stomachs of the frozen specimens above mentioned shows that it ate grass and vegetation as to-day grows in Northern Siberia."

"It is the same beast which must have wandered as far south as France in Europe, as attested by Paleolithic man's cave paintings and carvings of it in that part of the world. Whether primitive man existed in this country when the mammoth was here is, as yet, an unanswered question."

The teeth, bone fragments, a small model of the mammoth, as it looked in life and a book already in the academy's collection will be placed on exhibition in the academy's museum.

G. A. A. HEBDEN AGAIN LEADER

University Extension Elects
Officer: J. T. Stott Secretary
For Tenth Time

Members of the University Extension Association, at their annual meeting in Victoria College yesterday evening, re-elected G. A. A. Hebdon president of their organization. Miss J. A. Cann was named vice-president and J. T. Stott was returned as secretary-treasurer for the tenth successive year.

L. Clark was elected assistant secretary-treasurer and the executive was named as follows: Mrs. H. E. Young, Mrs. E. C. Hart, Miss M. J. Clay, P. H. Elliott, R. S. Farr, Ira Dilworth, J. L. Watson, A. B. Sanders and W. E. Pierce.

Presenting a report on last year's activities Mr. Stott stated the finances of the association were in fair shape, but an increased membership and more liberal donations would have to be secured in order to compensate for the reduction in the grant to the university, a small portion of which was devoted to extension work.

EDUCATIONISTS MEETING ASKED

Dr. R. C. Wallace, Edmonton, Calls For Conference on
Co-relation of Work

Edmonton, Oct. 28.—Dr. R. C. Wallace is calling a meeting of the university heads in the four western provinces for November 15 in Winnipeg. The purpose is to consider possible changes in university administration and services so that some of the work now done in the four institutions may be co-ordinated.

The meeting will be the outcome of a suggestion made by Premier John Brownlee some time ago and accepted by the premiers and university heads in the other provinces also. President Wallace was asked to call the meeting and arrangements have now been concluded.

FORD'S ATTACK STIRS DEMOCRAT

St. Paul, Oct. 28.—Former Senator James A. Reed of Missouri, Democrat, criticized political activities of Henry Ford, the motor-car manufacturer, in a campaign speech in behalf of Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt here last night.

"Candor compels me to admit," he said, "that our prospects are not so bright as they were a few days ago. We were making tremendous speed when we were suddenly sidetracked by Henry Ford's attack. It was an unfair and surprise attack."

"We all thought Henry was somewhere in the British Isles building tractors with foreign labor to ship to America in a patriotic effort to put out of business American factories employing American labor."

Back of the Reed attack was a recent circular Ford sent to his many thousands of employees, advising them to vote for President Herbert Hoover in the November 8 elections.

MAN FOUND DEAD VANCOUVER ROOM

Vancouver, Oct. 28.—A man who registered at 467 Richards Street a month ago as W. J. Williams, was discovered dead in his room at noon today by Mrs. B. Lacterman, owner of the rooming house, who had missed seeing Williams around for three weeks.

He is believed to have been dead for a week. One dead hand pointed to two empty rum bottles sitting on the floor. On a table in the room were two glasses, which led police to believe that a short time before his death Williams had been drinking with a companion. According to police they were unable to find any marks of violence.

Cumberland

Cumberland, Oct. 28.—Mrs. Watkins of Everett, who has been spending two months with her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Parnham, left on Wednesday for her home.

Miss Jean Dakers is spending a couple of weeks' holiday in Nanaimo and Vancouver. Miss Jean MacNaughton returned home on Wednesday to attend the Auchterlonie-Mounce wedding and the Canadian Scottish dance.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Bird and grandson of Vancouver are guests of Mr. and Mrs. Matt Brown. Mrs. Marion Stewart is leaving this week-end for Fort Alberni, where she will make her home with her son, Hector Stewart.

Mrs. Ewart and son were in town for the Auchterlonie-Mounce wedding, and also Mrs. R. Strachan and children of Vancouver. Mrs. T. R. S. Graham entertained at two tables of bridge at her home on Wednesday evening. Prize winners were Miss Tess Gallivan and Miss Christine McKinnon. Players were Miss Gallivan, Miss Hildebrand, Miss McKinnon, Mrs. W. Bruce Gordon, Mrs. Morton Graham, Miss Daphne

Cannon, Miss Florence Sehl and Mrs. McFarland. Miss Beatrice Cavellero is spending a few days in Vancouver on holiday. Mrs. Ches. Walker is a patient in the General Hospital, following a serious operation on Saturday. Miss Beattie Brown is also in hospital, recovering from an operation.

Percy Willis, missionary for the Shanlyman's Christian Mission, held two lantern lectures in Cumberland this week. On Monday evening he addressed the children, and on Tuesday evening spoke to adults at the Athletic Club. The slides depicted scenes in Palestine.

CANADIAN AND U.S. TRADE BOARDS UNITE

Montreal, Oct. 27.—A committee of five Canadians was named by the executive of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce to-day to act as the Canadian members of a joint committee being established by the United States and Canadian Chambers of Commerce for the discussion of problems affecting the business relationships of the two countries.

The Canadian section will consist of the president, John W. Rosa, Montreal, and four former presidents, J. H. Woods, Calgary; W. L. McGregor, Windsor; W. M. Birks, Montreal, and S. B. Dunlop, Toronto, who will act as chairman of the Canadian section.

SWEDEN SEEKS CANADA TRADE

Head of Swedish-American-Mexico Line Gives Views on Trade in Montreal

Sweden has allowed her trade routes to lapse and is looking to the British Empire as a means of rehabilitating its trade structure, according to Capt. Birger Zander, managing director of the Swedish-American-Mexico Line Ltd. recently in Montreal.

Mr. Zander made no secret of the fact that he feels the Ottawa agreement has not made trade easier between Canada and Scandinavian countries.

He recalled that the Swedish-American-Mexico Line established last year a regular direct freight service between Scandinavian ports and Canada and he declared that exporters on both sides of the Atlantic have been glad to take advantage of lower costs from reduced handling through being able to ship direct.

FAVORED NATION

Dealings with the history of trade arrangements between Scandinavian countries and Canada, he said: "Up to June 10, goods originating in the Scandinavian countries and Finland could pass through the customs under special rates of duty prevailing under the French Treaty 'most favored' nation clause provided they were imported direct to a port of Canada. However, with the expiration of the Canadian-French treaty on June 10, there was no favored nation arrangement and Scandinavian countries were placed on the intermediate tariff.

"Further restrictions against non-imperial countries came into effect on October 13 as a result of the recent Ottawa Conference," he continued.

"The intermediate tariff on certain dimensions of cold rolled or cold drawn iron or steel was previously 13½ per cent against the present rate of 20 per cent. There were no recent changes in the intermediate tariff on a certain grade of hot rolled iron and steel, but as the British preferential tariff was reduced from 5 per cent to right of free entry this will automatically have a bearing on the Swedish exporters. The intermediate and general tariff on separators was recently raised from free entry to 25 per cent whereas the British preferential tariff is still free."

"Canada's chief exports to the Scandinavian countries Finland consist of grain and flour. Other commodities of importance include apples, lobsters, and metals as copper, zinc and aluminum. Canada imports all kinds of machinery and tools, iron steel, granite, paperware and various fish products. Last year's trade figures between Canada and the Scandinavian countries have, of course, decreased compared to the trade some years ago. The Dominion, last year, exported merchandise to the value of $2,037,457 to Sweden and purchased in return merchandise worth $2,447,205."

CREW OF THIRTY-KNOT BOAT SAFE

Rerouting of Service Brings Ss. Silvermaple to This Coast in December

Vancouver, Oct. 28.—Giving British Columbia ports a new connection with South Africa on the one hand and its first direct service from Calcutta and Singapore on the other, the Silver-Java Pacific steamship line has re-routed its sailings to make Vancouver a loading and discharging port on its South Africa round-the-world run. Ships in this particular service of the company have been calling hitherto only at California ports on this coast.

Chief factor in the routing of the vessels here is the company's anticipation of increased business between Vancouver and South Africa under the Empire trade agreements negotiated at the Ottawa conference, according to the understanding of F. J. Pickett of Dingwell, Cotts & Co., agents for the Silver-Java line, faster delivery will be made from India, the Straits Settlements and the Philippines, the ships assigned to the service being fifteen knots faster than the old schedule. When found ashore Monday, the crew had a half-eaten meal on the cabin table and clothing was lying about. Various presumptions were that the boat might have been high-jacked, but she might have slipped her painter while moored to another ship, or have hit a rock and been abandoned.

GRAIN SHIP AROUND

Stratford, Ont., Oct. 28.—(Canadian Press)—The grain carrier Carleton, piloted by Captain Jewett and owned by the Patterson Steamship Company of Port William, went aground on Point Clark, twenty miles north of Goderich, according to reports received here to-day. The vessel was bound for Goderich with a load of grain.

MET HEAD WINDS

Meeting with strong head winds, the steamer Ruth Alexander, of the Pacific Steamship Company, was slightly delayed on her northbound trip to Victoria. The vessel will reach here about 4 p.m. and sail at 6 p.m. for Yokohama and Manila.

PORT OF ADEN

The administration of the Port of Aden, which affords an accommodation for vessels having a draught of up to thirty-three feet, is in the hands of a board of trustees. Vessels of greater draught can be handled by working the tides, the mean range of ordinary spring tides being 3.7 feet. During the year ending March 31, 1932, the merchant steamers, excluding government vessels, which used the port, totaled 1,653, aggregating 5,819,323 tons, including 1,000,193 tons of cargo, 1,000,193 tons of passengers and 6,367,730 in 1929-1930. No new works of importance were actually put in hand during the year covered by the report, but sundry repairs to cranes, piers, harbor lights buildings and roads were completed, and the port works equipment maintained in a state of efficiency.

PORTIA CLUB ENTERTAINS

The Portia Club of the Victoria High School held its fourth annual silver tea yesterday afternoon. Hallowe'en colors and favors being employed in the general decorative scheme with charming effect. About 250 guests attended the affair and much interest was taken in the competition for the best-dressed table.

Mrs. S. J. Willis presented the first prize to the English gypsy table, the clever handwork of Peggy Mulliner, Barbara Winslow, "Bunny" Maynard and Helen Gilliland. The table winning the second prize used a Swedish theme, and among the vanda were some characteristic Swedish dainties. The girls in charge of this table were Ann-Mari Bjornast, Mona Humphries, Helen Stevens and Doreen Palmer.

A Canadian table was cleverly decorated with the coats of arms of the provinces; a sailors' table boasted a sailing ship centrepiece, and a Hawaiian table was decorated effectively with palms and cocoanuts. At other tables were seen two Chinese girls, May and Mary Lore, in strictly correct Chinese national costume, and Barbara Mills and Lilian Grant in Highland dress.

The adjudicators were Mrs. S. J. Willis, Miss Adele Macleod, and Harry Dee. In presenting the prizes Mrs. Willis warmly commended the contestants on the keen interest and artistic feeling shown.

Mrs. Ruth Haynes, president of the Portia Club, presided over the brief formal part of the proceedings, introducing Mrs. Willis.

PRINCESS VISITS ROYAL UNCLE

Associated Press
London, Oct. 28.—Princess Ingrid of Sweden arrived yesterday evening by plane from Brussels, presumably for one of her frequent visits to her favorite uncle, the Duke of Connaught.

There was nothing to substantiate gossip she was or would be engaged to Prince George, third son of the King. Such talk was traceable to the Prince's visit to Stockholm recently with the Prince of Wales.

PERSONAL

Mrs. R. A. Brown has returned to Victoria after having spent the last five months with her daughter, Miss Jessie Cameron Brown, in Boston, Mass.

Miss Pat Lamont of Seattle, who has been spending a few days in Victoria as the guest of Mrs. Otto Weiler, Douglas Street, has returned to her home in Washington State.

Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Squires of Downey, Cal., arrived in this city yesterday to spend a few days. They intend to do considerable fishing and sightseeing in and around Victoria. They are registered at the Dominion Hotel.

Mr. R. F. Castle, St. Charles Street, who has been visiting in eastern Canada while en route to his home in Victoria from a business trip to England, returned yesterday afternoon to his home in Victoria.

Mrs. John Cadow of Qualicum Beach is visiting in Victoria as the guest of Mrs. George Deane, Park Boulevard, and will leave on Sunday for California on a visit to friends in Los Angeles.

Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Stuart have rented their home on Despard Avenue to Mr. Nicholson, manager of the Great West Life Assurance Company, and Mrs. Nicholson, and have taken a smaller home on Dufferin Avenue.

Mrs. C. B. Chadwick, Orchard Avenue, who has been visiting in Montreal for the last few weeks as the guest of friends, will return at the beginning of next week to her home in Oak Bay.

Mrs. J. H. McLaughlin and her two children will leave tomorrow for Montreal, where she will call on the St. Ascania for England to join Mr. McLaughlin, who has been there several months.

Mrs. T. Harris Bartley of Portland, accompanied by her daughter, Mrs. M. H. Hartnell, also of Portland, left yesterday for her home in Oregon after spending a few days in Victoria as a guest at The Angela.

Miss Laura Dunsmuir entertained a party at the cricket dance last night. Her guests being Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Higgs, Misses Cynthia Johnston, Marjorie and Frances Fraser and Messrs. Stanley Whitehead, Bruce Forbes, Noel Jones and Bert Walton.

Six tables were in play at the first card party held at St. Michael's A.Y. P.A. in the Parish Hall on Tuesday evening. Court wheel was played. First prizes were won by Mrs. Pullen and Mr. R. Mezger; consolation prizes, Miss M. Taylor and Mr. B. Kellow. Refreshments were served at the close of the game.

Mr. and Mrs. Val E. Nichols of Savary Island, and the guests of Mr. Stephen Jones at the Dominion Hotel. They arrived in Mr. W. H. Cross's plane from Vancouver yesterday. Mr. Nichols is the manager of the Mountain Chateau in Vancouver. The last two years he has been operating the Savary Inn on Savary Island, but had the misfortune to have it burned to the ground last month. However, he expects to build in the early spring.

BRIDEGROOM IS VICTORIA MAN

Mr. Sperry P. Phillips Wed in Vancouver to Miss Mary Martin

Vancouver, Oct. 28.—A lovely home wedding was solemnized on Wednesday evening when Mary, youngest daughter of Mrs. Martin and the late George Martin, became the bride of Mr. Sperry P. Phillips of Victoria, son of Mr. C. H. Phillips of Kimberley. The ceremony of palms combined with white lilies and tall standards of roses formed the setting for the ceremony which was performed by the Rev. William B. Brown, the fire place in the drawing room. Mr. George Martin, brother of the bride, supported the groom. The wedding music was played by Miss Margaret MacMillan, while during the signing of the register Mr. Walter Jones of Victoria sang "O Promise Me."

The bride, who was given in marriage by her brother, Mr. Wilfred Martin, wore an exquisite gown on long lines and made with sleeves that puffed above the elbow and fitted closely over the wrist. Her veil of white net fell from a cap of the same material held in place with a band of orange ribbon and carried bouquets of lilies of the valley.

The two attendants, Mrs. J. Gilbert Hodson, sister of the bride, as matron of honor, and Miss Laura Dickie as bridesmaid, wore frocks fashioned along a line of pink lace in full floor length. Both wore short jackets of blue velvet, with blue velvet turbans and slippers, and carried bouquets of freesias, pink roses and delphiniums. For the occasion Mrs. Martin chose a gown of black and white with a black and white jacket of black lace and a corsage bouquet of purple orchids.

A cloth of purple lace covered the bride's table which was centred with a host of bride's roses flanked by tall white tapers in silver sconces. The three-tier wedding cake, flanked by bride and groom, was placed on a table in the drawing room.

Mr. and Mrs. Phillips left later to spend their honeymoon in the south. For travelling the bride donned a frock of blue velvet with a black and white band of grey squirrel. Her hat was of blue felt and her shoes and gloves were of matching hue, while her ensemble was completed by a corsage bouquet of mauve orchids. On their return Mr. and Mrs. Phillips will reside on Fairfield Road, Victoria.

WOMEN HAVE NOT TIME TO VOTE, SAYS WIFE OF FAMOUS VIOLINIST

When Fritz Kreisler, famous composer-violinist, and Mrs. Kreisler arrived in New York aboard the S. Bremen, as shown here, it was Mrs. Kreisler who did most of the talking. In a tirade against woman suffrage, she asserted: "A woman has all she can do in the care of one man, whether it be a husband, father or brother. She has no time to meddle in things she does not understand." Kreisler is in the U.S. for a concert tour before returning to Vienna for the premier of a comic opera, "Sissy," which he has just finished.

Jubilee Linen Shower Is Outstanding Success

Total of 945 Pieces and $71.55 in Cash Received by Woman's Auxiliary Yesterday; Lieut. Governor Unveils Memorial Plaque to Late Mrs. C. W. Rhodes and Pays Tribute to Her Devoted Services

An even more generous response than last year greeted the appeal of the Woman's Auxiliary to the Jubilee Hospital on the occasion of the annual linen shower held yesterday afternoon. The total number of pieces received being 945, valued at $361, and made up of 432 serviettes, ninety-eight face towels, 131 bath towels, ten sheets, 251 pillow slips, two glass towels and one bolt of diaper cloth. In addition cash donations amounting to $71.55 was received. The interest of the occasion was enhanced by the unveiling by His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor of a memorial plaque to the late Mrs. C. W. Rhodes, for twenty-five years a member of the Board of Directors.

TRIBUTE TO MRS. RHODES

His Honor and Mrs. J. W. Fordham Johnson, who were accompanied by Mr. A. M. D. Fairbairn, president of the Board of Directors, and Mrs. Shandley, Dr. E. M. Pearce, medical superintendent, and Mrs. Pearce, Mrs. J. L. Crump, Miss Dwyer, Mrs. W. A. Chambers, president of the Woman's Auxiliary, and Mrs. Hermann Robertson, first vice-president.

In unveiling the tablet and the accompanying framed portrait of the late Mrs. Rhodes, His Honor briefly recalled her twenty-five years of devoted service to the cause of the sick and suffering. "It is fitting, indeed," he said, "that the Jubilee Hospital should commemorate her unselfing and untiring efforts with this handsome plaque. May her memory be a source of inspiration to all who follow her example."

A handsome oil painting of Mrs. E. S. Hasell, widow of Dr. Hasell, a former medical superintendent of Jubilee Hospital, who sailed from England on the Duchess of Bedford on October 21 for Canada. Mrs. Hasell is expected to arrive in Victoria about November 3 and will spend the winter months as the guest of Mrs. James Dunsmuir at Hatley Park.

The reception of the linen gifts was in charge of Mrs. Cecil French and assisting her were Mrs. Henry Heisterman, Mrs. R. J. Robertson, Mrs. J. L. Crump, Miss Dwyer, Mrs. R. H. Oliver, Mrs. P. E. Taylor, Mrs. Vaughan Roberts and Mrs. J. K. Unsworth.

A delicious tea was served in the lounge, the tables being most attractively arranged with yellow and bronze chrysanthemums and tall branched silver candelabra with white tapers. Mrs. H. C. Dillabough, general convener of the tea, and Mrs. A. McKewen, Mrs. F. C. Dillabough and Mrs. J. Phetson poured tea at the long tea table, while Mrs. Heisterman presided at the table arranged for the special guests.

A. Ross, Miss Curry and a number of the nurses assisted in serving. Mrs. E. H. Griffiths was at the receipt of customs.

SPECIAL GUESTS

In addition to His Honor and Mrs. Johnson, those specially invited were Mrs. Ethel Rhodes of Vancouver, Mrs. A. P. Griffiths, Mrs. F. D. Little, Mrs. John Irving, Mrs. J. C. Ambery, Mrs. C. Spratt, Mrs. Dunsmuir, Mrs. Stuart Robertson and Miss Vivien Comb.

Invitations to the tea were issued by the mayor and council, the reeves and councillors of Oak Bay, Esquimalt and Saanich municipalities, the Daughters of Pity, the Junior Women's Auxiliary, the Victoria Hospital Alumnae.

CASH DONATIONS

Cash donations were received from the following: Mrs. Aaron Gossnson, Mr. B. Gossnson, Mrs. F. C. Dillabough, Mrs. Vaughan Roberts, Mrs. A. B. Bullock-Webster, Mrs. Gill, Mrs. Gill, Mrs. T. W. Patterson, A. Friend, Mrs. Lang, San Francisco, Mrs. H. Shandley, Mrs. Herbert Pendre, A. Friend, Mrs. B. O. Richards and Mrs. E. M. Harris.

Pimples on Face. Caused Loss of Rest. Healed by Cuticura.

"Pimples broke out on my face. They were not very large but were quite red and puffy looking. My face was very sore, and the itching and burning caused me to lose a lot of rest. I tried about everything but could not get rid of them. I had the trouble about a year before I began using Cuticura Soap and Ointment. Within twenty-four hours they relieved the itching and burning, and after using them about three weeks I was completely healed." (Signed) Stanley Walling, 9212-109-A Ave., Edmonton, Alta.

POPULAR YOUNG COUPLE WED

Miss Elsie Grace Smith and Joseph D. Poirier Married at Colwood

Pioneer Families United by Marriage; Reception at Luxton Hall

Two pioneer families were united by the marriage at St. John's Church, Colwood, yesterday evening at 8 o'clock of Elsie Grace, second daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Smith of Sooke Road, Luxton, to Joseph Denton Poirier, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Poirier, Otter Point. The bride's father and the groom's parents were all born on Vancouver Island.

Rev. H. S. Payne conducted the ceremony, and Miss James played the wedding music. The pretty, fair-haired bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a lovely gown of white georgette in floor-length, the skirt inset with white radium lace and finished with a jaspette of radium lace finished with tiny puff sleeves. Her long veil of silk net was confined to the hair with orange blossoms, and her only ornament was a string of pearls. She carried a bouquet of roses and pink carnations. Miss Verna Smith, sister of the bride, was the only attendant, gowned in Nile green satin with deep hem of radium lace to tone, and a coat of the lace. She wore a lace turban hat of the same shade and carried a sheaf of bronze chrysanthemums. Mr. Andrew Davidson, cousin of the bridegroom, was best man.

After the ceremony, a largely attended reception was held at Luxton Hall, where the young couple were assisted in receiving by the bride's mother, Mrs. Chas. Smith, and groom's mother, Mrs. Joseph Poirier. Mrs. Smith was handsomely gowned in brown georgette, with becoming hat to match. Mrs. Poirier wore black crepe de chine, combined with wistaria shade, and coat of wistaria shade, and a black hat with silver lace. The hall was attractively decorated and the supper table was centred with the three-tiered wedding cake. Pink and white was the color scheme of the decorations, and the young couple sat beneath an artistic white wedding veil.

Assisting in serving the guests were Mrs. Claude Cook, Mrs. Walter Cook, Mrs. Jack Miller, Misses Mary McKay, Evelyn Smith, Phyllis Poirier, Amy Heath and Gladys Robinson. Dancing was enjoyed, the music being supplied by an orchestra.

The bride and groom left later on a motor trip to up-land points, the bride choosing for the occasion a green sports outfit with accessories to match. On their return they will reside at Otter Point.

Among the many beautiful gifts received was a handsome silver case from members of the St. John's Athletic Club basketball team, both bride and groom being members.

Colwood

An old-time Scotch dance will be held in Colwood Hall next Friday evening, November 4, under the auspices of the Colwood Burns Club. A three-piece orchestra will be in attendance. Tombola awards will be made, and special prizes given to the best dancers in the quadrille.

Prizes were awarded at Wednesday evening's card party in Colwood Hall to Mrs. W. Longworth, Miss Gertrude Miller, Messrs. B. Parker and H. Ridgely. Six tables were in play. The party was held under the auspices of the Colwood Hall committee. The service will be held on Sunday-morning at 11 o'clock at St. John's Church.

Emmanuel Thank-offering Luncheon—The Women's Missionary Society of Emmanuel Baptist Church held a successful thank-offering luncheon in the church hall Tuesday, Mrs. William Russell presiding. Rev. Dr. E. A. Henry of Fairfield Church gave an inspiring Thanksgiving message. Mrs. D. Thompson, recently of Winnipeg, was the guest speaker, and told of the work among the New Canadians of that city. Rev. G. A. Reynolds and Mrs. Taylor of the First Baptist Church, Mrs. L. S. Short of New Westminster Church, and Mrs. A. Imrie, formerly of Calgary, were guests. Miss Gladys Marchant sang charmingly "I'll Go Where You Want Me To Go." Mrs. George Green playing her accompaniment. A generous offering was received.

will explain in what proportions the vine water should be made. It is well to start the campaign against the ammoniacal diaper by first making changes in the diet and then by attention to a more thorough washing of the diaper itself. If the parent is ignorant of proper diets for any age up to five years, or of formulas suited to children, the first year, they may have my leaflets on these subjects by sending a self-addressed, stamped envelope with her request to this department. ## GORGE VALE'S DANCE SUCCESS

Golf Club Members Hosts at Delightful Affair Yesterday Evening

Over 200 members of the Gorge Vale Golf Club and their friends attended the delightful dance held yesterday evening at the Knights of Columbus Hall, which was gaily decorated for the occasion with streamers in the club colors of scarlet and green. The dance is the first ever held by the club and proved such a success that it is proposed to make it an annual event. Much credit for the success of the affair was due to the energetic social committee, Mr. W. Marshall, assisted by Mrs. M. W. Oliver, Miss Freda Rippington, Mr. W. Pasmore and Mr. Charles Oard.

PRIZES PRESENTED—During the evening the captain, James Burden, presented the prizes to the winners of the recent competitions as follows: Sharland Cup, Howard D. Reid; runner-up, Frank Thomas; third,

B. Gwynne; fourth, J. Sangster; fifth, J. Pollard, and sixth, H. H. Allen. Carmichael Cup, R. Humberstone; runner-up, T. Cowden. Wilkerson Cup for ladies, Mrs. M. H. Tyhurst; second, Miss Lillian McLeod, and third, Miss Peggy Allen. C. F. Banfield, chairman of the membership committee, spoke briefly of the success of the membership campaign now being conducted, and touched upon plans for the coming winter season.

Bridge was arranged for non-dancers, the prizes being won by Mrs. R. M. Williams and A. T. Hunkin, first; special prize, Mrs. J. C. Holley. THOSE PRESENT—Among the many guests were Mr. and Mrs. R. M. Williams, Mr. and Mrs. O. Trickett, Mr. and Mrs. R. H. P. Sewell, Mr. and Mrs. H. I. Mallek, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Linham, Mr. J. Burden, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Willey, Mr. and Mrs. C. S. ## Your Baby and Mine

By MYRTLE MEYER ELDRED

OLD WEATHER DIET BRINGS DIGESTIVE ILLS

The inevitable changes in diet which accompany a new season tend to increase the frequency of certain problems. The baby's appetite, which fluctuates with heat, is, if respected, no deterrent to overeating. But cooler weather acts as a spur to the appetite, and the temperature, preventing the child's outdoor activities, complicates the situation by offering the child fewer opportunities to use up the energy provided by a more nutritious diet.

WINTER AFFLICTION

One of the commonplace symptoms of overfeeding, or of a diet overbalanced in some particular, is apt to be ammoniacal urine. Ammonia is an end product of digestion which increases noticeably when the burdens of digestion are excessive, or when the foods contain an overbalance of the acid ash foods. Ammonia may also be the product of the union of the urine and a vegetable bacteria which is present on improperly washed diapers.

UNBALANCED DIET

At this season of the year the baby gets a large portion of cereal, oatmeal, breadstuffs, milk, eggs and probably meat if he is in his second year. All of these foods are predominantly acid ash foods. The foods which would balance this ration are the citrus fruit juices and vegetables. Both of these may be somewhat slighted in the winter diet for reasons of economy or convenience. When the mother notices that the baby's diaper is so strong of ammonia as to permeate the room with this disagreeable odor, or to burn the baby's skin, her first step should be to include more of the alkali ash foods in the diet; that is, vegetable soup, or sliced vegetables in greater abundance, and more orange or tomato juice daily.

In addition she should be critical of the amounts of milk and cream baby is imbibing. His gain will be an indication of overeating, so that gains of over six ounces weekly for the second six months, should warn her that baby is getting more milk and other foods than he needs for adequate nutrition.

POINTS OF LAUNDERING

Diaper care is important. Even if there is no sunlight, diapers are benefited by being dried out of doors. They should be washed in hot soap suds, rinsed well, boiled, rinsed again, and hung out where the wind will whip them smooth. No ironing is necessary. If the ammoniacal urine persists, even after the suggested changes have been made in the diet, a rinse water in which some bi-chloride of mercury has been dissolved may end the vegetable bacteria. As this solution is a deadly poison, it should be used most cautiously around children, and the tablets of mercury should be kept on the highest shelf. The doctor of druggist

TOOK NINE YEARS OFF HER AGE

To Help Her Get a Job

Keeps Young with Kruschen

When she wanted a new position, this woman knew her 52 years would spoil her chances. So she gave her age as 43. They said she didn't look as old as that—and gave her the job! She tells the whole story in this letter:—

"Four years ago I lost my husband, and had to earn my own living as a housekeeper. Two years ago I had acute indigestion, and felt so tired and depressed. I could not keep bright, and everything seemed a burden. I took Kruschen Salts, and after three months I was a different woman. I took a position at this address recently, giving my age as 43, and they said they didn't think I was that age. I owe my good health and brightness and courage to carry on entirely to Kruschen Salts."—L. W.

The reason why Kruschen puts you right, and keeps you right, is because each little tasteless pinch is a full day's supply of six mineral salts that your inside must have—salt Nature would see you get if you led a healthy, active life in the open. These vital salts all restore proper activity to the liver and kidneys, so that every particle of poisonous waste matter is expelled from the system. The blood is thus cleansed and refreshed and sent coursing to every fibre of your body. You grow steadily fitter, day after day, until you feel fit to be finger-fingered with a tingling vitality. Kruschen Salts is obtainable at all Drug Stores at 45c. and 75c. per bottle.

Love Unlocks The Door

By ANNIE S. SWAN

"It is perfectly sinful the waste of opportunities in a man like Mr. Horne. Your father said his wealth is fabulous, but where are the evidences? This place is very nice, oh, yes, but then your father says he is really the people's choice for West Edinburgh, yet he absolutely declines to stand. Says he can't afford the time. What a chance to lose, if he has ability, and I suppose he must have, of a kind, to have got on so well. He might distinguish himself, and even get a knighthood. Nothing easier with means behind. It only requires a little tact, a quality which old Horne does not understand."

"You are very hard on him, mamma. Not harder than he deserves. I tell you, to a woman like myself who knows the value of opportunities, and who prides herself on not having lost one in this life, it is particularly aggravating. Now, who on earth are these people? There ought to be a dictionary or something or labels on them, for one never meets them anywhere else. Who is that man talking to Biddy?"

"I think that is Mr. Gerard, a brother of Elsie Gerard, who works at the mission, at least they came in together. Do you see her, that pretty girl in the dark blue frock?"

"I see her. She is certainly handsome, but I want to know who they are, and why we meet them here."

"Nobody in particular, I fear, mamma. They live in a flat in Nelson Street, and he, I think, is a clerk in Howard and Payne's. Bob knows him."

OUT OUR WAY

THE LONG STRETCH.

cried Mary quickly, hoping that the announcement of a name much revered in their own set would mollify her. The little ruse succeeded, and immediately, without a word of apology to Gerard, she sailed up the room to greet the lady who had just entered. But a close observer looking on at the little scene might have noticed that the effusive delight of greeting was all on one side. The elderly, sweet-faced and very plainly dressed woman did not like Mrs. Inglis, and gave her very little encouragement. She had come to see the Horne, and to be especially kind to Biddy, whose mother she had known and loved.

"Won't you sit down, Mr. Gerard," said Mary, looking up at the tall figure standing not awkwardly, though silently, in front of her.

Gerard accepted the invitation. "I am a stranger here," he observed, "and not much accustomed to such occasions. I came with my sister."

"Oh, yes, I must speak to Elsie. How was she looking to-day?"

"She is enjoying herself, and Mr. Horne is truly kind. He has that rare faculty of being able to bring out the very best that is in one. To a business man such a possession must be invaluable."

"It must be, but though I like Mr. Horne immensely, I have never perceived that about him," said Mary, in a puzzled voice. "He has the reputation of being rather blunt and plain-spoken, and even gives offence in some quarters."

"He would not suffer humbug, I should think," observed Gerard quickly.

"I think you know my brother, Bob?" said Mary presently. "He has spoken of you to me. You know that we are losing him, I suppose?"

"Oh, yes. He has even suggested that I should accompany him to British Columbia."

"Oh, surely that would be a pity," said Mary—a little impulsively, then colored, feeling that she had made a remark that would be difficult to explain.

"Would you mind telling me why?"

"Well, I suppose I must not have perceived that unfortunate remark. It is a pity, don't you think, that we should give up our best to the colonies?"

"You are very kind to say that, but I am afraid I must admit that I have been a failure here."

"Don't say that. Perhaps you have had no opportunity. I prefer to believe that."

Her dark eyes full of perfect sincerity met his, and a curious expression leaped into his own. Her clear, well-cut profile, her broad, thoughtful brow, and earnest eyes all betokened a well-balanced mind and an intellect of no mean order. Also she had sympathy, which to one in his position was singularly grateful. In fact, it was the quality so strong in Mary Inglis that was his undoing that afternoon.

"I have heard people say that the strong man makes his own opportunities, but there are circumstances where even the strong man feels himself powerless. Your brother, I have no doubt, has acquainted you with the soul destroying routine of a lawyer's office?"

"It has its drudgery, of course, and must be gone through even by those who have risen. My father had to go through just the same treadmill. There is no royal road," she said.

"I believe that, but then it suited the bent of his mind. He was never in any doubt as to his future, he mapped it out for himself, and his exceptional ability enabled him to adhere to his own programme. Your brother has explained all that to me."

"And what, may I ask, is your bent? I am sure you don't look as if you would enjoy counting sheep or covering whatever it is they have out there where Bob is going."

Gerard laughed. "In happier circumstances, I should have entered the army."

"Why the army?"

"My father is a soldier."

Mary sat still a moment deeply surprised, but afraid to ask another question lest she should hear that his father was in the ranks. Not that it would have mattered very much to her, but if it ever came to her mother's knowledge it would mean instant severance from the Gerards. She might even be forbidden to speak to Elsie, of whom she was genuinely fond.

"Help! Help!"

Gerard watched her face, quite conscious that a mask had suddenly been drawn over it. Her expression as she stared straight before her, into the middle of the room where the throng was thickest, was quite blank.

"You do not approve of the army, perhaps?"

"Oh, why should I approve or disapprove? It has to exist, and we have many friends in it, though, of course, we do not belong to the military set. It is so amusing in Edinburgh, each little cortege is so exactly defined, and each has its little vineyard, as it were, to cultivate. You should hear Biddy—I mean Miss Horne—on it. Do you know Miss Horne well?"

"No, I saw her to-day for the first time. She is handsome, don't you think, and so very clever? Her tongue is feared by a good many, but her heart is really kind that she would not willingly hurt anybody. And it is certain that she fears nothing under the sun."

"There is a strong resemblance between her father and herself."

"Do you think so? I have never noticed it, but they are devoted to one another. Look, that is Mr. Walter Horne, who has just come in, the eldest son."

Uncle Wiggily and the Trap

By HOWARD R. GARIS

"Where, oh, where, can Mr. Longtail be?" thought Uncle Wiggily as he looked at the dark and empty cheese factory where the mouse gentleman worked. "I said I'd find him and I must or his wife will cry her eyes out. Ho, Longtail! Where are you?" called the rabbit.

But there was no answer. Late that afternoon—and it was now dark evening—Mrs. Longtail, the mouse wife, had come, weeping, to Uncle Wiggily's bungalow and begged him to find her husband, who had not come back from the cheese factory. He had promised to return home early to take his family to the movies, but he hadn't done so.

At first Uncle Wiggily thought Mr. Longtail might be working overtime, but when the rabbit saw the dark and silent cheese factory he knew this could not be.

"I'll see if I can find the watchman and ask him if Longtail left at the regular time to go home?" thought Mr. Longtail. He knocked on the door of the dark and silent cheese factory and soon an old, gray rat opened the door just a little.

"What do you want?" snapped the watchman.

"I'm looking for Mr. Longtail who works here," said Uncle Wiggily. "His wife is worried because he hasn't come home."

Help! Help!

"He isn't here!" growled the watchman rat. "There's no one here but me and I'm going to punch the clocks and get my supper. Good-night!" and with that he shut the door in Uncle Wiggily's face.

"Well, I must say he isn't very helpful," thought the rabbit. "But now I must see if I can find Longtail. I know the way he usually goes home, so I'll go that same way myself."

More than once Uncle Wiggily had hoped along when Mr. Longtail went home from the cheese factory so the rabbit knew which paths the mouse gentleman generally used. The rabbit was hopping along the path that led through the woods, and the moon, coming up over the trees, gave light enough to see a little when, all of a sudden, Mr. Longtail heard a call of "Help! Help!"

"Who is that? Who wants help?" asked Uncle Wiggily.

"I do! I need help very much!" was the answer.

"Are you Mr. Longtail?" asked the rabbit.

"Yes," was the reply. "Oh, Uncle Wiggily! I'm in a trap! I'm caught in a trap!"

"No! Really?" asked the bunny hardly able to believe what he heard.

"Yes, really," was the answer. "Look around the corner of the old stump and you'll see me."

Uncle Wiggily looked and saw a trap and in it was the mouse gentleman, together with a piece of cheese.

"How in the world did you get in there?" asked Uncle Wiggily. "I thought you were too old a mouse, Longtail, to be caught by a trap of frightened cats."

"I thought so myself," said Mr. Longtail sadly. "But it only goes to show that we can all make mistakes. Oh, when my wife gets out, I was so silly as to walk into this trap to get caught she'll never speak to me again. Never!"

"There is no need for her to know," said Uncle Wiggily kindly. "It will do her no good to know."

"Oh, but she'll find it out!" squealed the mouse gentleman.

"How?" asked Uncle Wiggily. "I'll never tell her."

"No, but when the Police Cat comes here and finds my body!" said Mr. Longtail, faltering like and mourning. "The news will get out. My wife will know I was so silly as to get caught in a trap."

"How did it happen?" asked Mr. Longtail. "And don't be so sure your wife will find it out. I may be able to help you. How did you get in this trap?"

"Silly like I just walked in," said the mouse. "I meant to bring home a piece of cheese from the factory as I often do, but I forgot about it until I was nearly here. Then, all of a sudden, I smelled cheese and thinking I might, after all, have brought out a piece that I had dropped, I smelled around until I located this chunk of cheese. Then I went in after it and the trap snapped shut. Oh, dear!"

"Now don't worry!" said Uncle Wiggily. "I'm going to get you out of this trap."

"How?" asked the mouse gentleman.

"You shall soon see," said the bunny uncle, and so shall you children. For to-morrow night the story will be about Uncle Wiggily's trap trick. But the tried egg must not jump out of the pan and go skipping around the kitchen to tag the butter knife. No!

SISTER MARY'S KITCHEN

NEW WAYS TO SERVE GRIDDLE CAKES

By SISTER MARY

Popular and delectable as they are, flapjacks are not a suitable daily food for the person of sedentary habits. With this in mind, many mothers like to serve them as an occasional treat.

Since the ingredients for making griddle cakes are always at hand, they make an excellent emergency dish for a simple and satisfying luncheon or supper.

Some of the varieties of griddle cakes which we have borrowed from European countries are substantial enough for main dishes. The addition of meat or vegetables changes them from a bread substitute to a hearty concoction to serve with gravy.

The English method of serving plain wheat cakes adds interest to a company breakfast or Sunday evening supper. The cakes are baked as large as a supper plate and are spread as they are baked with butter, jelly, or sugar and marmalade, and are piled one above the other. They must be kept warm until all are baked. Cut in wedge-shaped pieces, pie fashion, to serve.

French pancakes are spread with butter and jelly creamed together and rolled quickly like a jelly roll. Each roll is dredged with powdered sugar. The finishing touch is added by scoring the sugar by burning with a red hot poker. The poker, of course, was previously cleaned carefully. The cakes are quite as good without this last procedure, but they look quite intriguing and unusual.

POTATO GRIDDLE CAKES

Two cups grated raw potato, 2 eggs, 2-3 cup flour, 1 teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon baking powder, 4 tablespoons milk.

Pare potatoes and let stand in cold water for several hours. Drain and grate. Beat eggs well and add grated potato. Mix and sift flour, salt and baking powder and add to first mixture. Beat well and add milk gradually. Drop from tip of beating spoon onto well greased griddle. Bake until brown, first on one side and then on the other. Serve hot.

Bread crumb griddle cakes use stale bread crumbs to advantage.

BREAD CRUMB GRIDDLE CAKES

One and one-half cups fine stale bread crumbs, 2 cups hot milk, 2 tablespoons butter, 2 eggs, 1 cup flour, 1 teaspoon salt, 3/4 teaspoons baking powder.

Combine crumbs and milk and beat until smooth. Mix and sift flour, salt and baking powder and add with remaining ingredients. Bake on a hot griddle and serve hot.

COMPANY MENU

Breakfast: Iced tomato juice, cereal, cream, poached eggs with milk toast, milk, coffee.

Luncheon: Cream of celery soup, toasted crackers, radish, bread crumbs, brown sugar syrup, sweet cider.

Dinner: Braised beef, baked squash, cabbage and celery salad, grape juice sponge, milk, coffee.

BRITISH TRADE IS HARD HIT

Tariffs Cut Imports 20 Per

Exports Fall More

Pound Sterling to Be Allowed to Stabilize Before Any

Return to Gold

London, Oct. 28.—The best opinion is that sterling will have to be kept stable for a very considerable period before any actual fixed rate for revaluation can be determined.

Proposals may shortly be submitted by the Bank for International Settlements for restoration of the gold standard, in England and elsewhere; but any suggestions put forward will be those of the bank itself, and will not be sponsored by the British Government or any other responsible authority. It is certain that the British Government, in view of past experience, will move very slowly in the matter,

and will be quite sure of its ground before taking any formal action respecting stabilization of sterling.

Meanwhile the foreign trade statement continues to show disappointing results in the influence of lower sterling on British export. The prevailing comment here is that last month's exports, as reported this week, continued to reflect the influence of world-wide restrictions on exchange transactions, also the influence of restrictive tariffs. The reduction of 20 1/2 per cent in September imports, com-

Thirty-two Fight For Positions On Toronto Champions

Fred Bullivant Occupies Unique Place in Six-day Bike Racing

Officials as Chief Trainer, Doctor and Dietician at One Time

Bike Marathon Riders Are the Best Massaged Athletes in the World

Respected Athletes Are the Champions in Many Different Sports

WHILE thousands of spectators marvel at the stamina and ability of six-day bicycle riders, few realize that Fred Bullivant is the man who plays such a large part in keeping the riders fit and trim for these grinds. Though Fred is known as chief trainer, he might appropriately be called the house doctor, for his duties entail both that of a trainer and doctor. The riders' foods, massages or mishaps that might occur are a part of each day's activity with which he has to cope.

In the course of a bicycle marathon there are many things that the cyclist must have. First their diets must be given the strictest attention. This, of course, is done by the trainer, who sends a general food list to the chef. The list excludes all pastries and greasy dishes. Six-day racing is a game of many accidents, caused mostly by spills. To render first aid and help the riders continue the race, Fred's presence on the track is required day and night. Even when an accident of a more serious nature occurs the injured rider often continues. It is nothing new for a rider to race on after receiving a fractured collarbone. He is learned all the tricks of the game and is able to strap a fellow in such a way as to not impede his riding.

The bicycle athlete is the best massaged athlete in the world. He has to be, otherwise he could never finish a six-day marathon. He is massaged differently from any other athlete. For the greatest part of his twenty-five years' association with the game, Bullivant has been a study of cycling athletes. To-day he knows more athletes in the six-day racing than any other man in the world. He knows the diets best suited for most of them, their weakness in competition and their possibilities of winning against certain teams. Chief trainer of a six-day race is undoubtedly the most difficult job connected with the race, as he has to be on duty three hours a day and has to be content with it.

Here you are "four-eyes" polish up your specs and look at some of the Tenth Olympiad's weak-eyed greats. Ranking number one in the sprinting world is Eddie Tolon, who straps his glasses on his face with adhesive tape before he pounds over the cinders.

Tommy Hampson, Great Britain's sterling half-mile, sensational winner of the metric equivalent of that distance in Los Angeles, peers at the world from behind optical aids.

Ben Eastman, California's wonder-boy who just missed the Olympic crown, but who holds both the 400 and 600 metre records, is another of the Harold Lloyd family.

Charlie Horobostel, finalist in the 800 metres spends most of the visual part of his life behind glasses.

Mrs. Dale Cooper, U.S.A. tower diver who finished in the money at the games, smiles through lenses when she's not diving.

And then there is Harold Osborne, United States high jump champion for many years—who did not have any difficulty getting up at a bay over which he had to soar despite impeded vision.

Marti Jarvinen, Finnish javelin ace who tossed the spear to a new Olympic record to win his event without even removing his sweat-pants, also belongs to the family.

CANADIAN HORSE WINS AT BOSTON

Boston, Oct. 28.—The Canadian army team crashed into the winning column at the Boston horse show yesterday evening when Lieut. C. C. Mann rode the big chestnut gelding Michael over a difficult jump-course to first place in the international individual officers' competition.

Only seven faults were recorded as Lieut. Mann and his charger completed the nine-jump test.

Earlier in the day the Canadian team had placed third and fourth in the class for three hunters or jumpers owned by an exhibitor. The French army team won the event while a United States team owned by Hugh Bancroft Jr. placed second.

Navy Hoopsters Play at Luxton

Saturday night's hoop fixture for Luxton Hall will include a game between the Navy and Luxton senior boys. Dancing will round out the evening.

WESTS TO MEET

A meeting of the Victoria West first and second division clubs will be held this evening at 8 o'clock, at 1007 Esquimalt Road. All players are asked to attend.

Maple Leafs Will Have Plenty of Weeding Out to Do Before Opening of Season; Find Trouble Replacing Finnigan; Lorne Chabot Shaping Up Well in Nets; Canadiens Will Take the Ice This Week-end; Aitkenhead and Moore in Keen Fight for Goal Position With New York Rangers

Battle for places on the world champion Toronto Maple Leafs of the National Hockey League goes merrily on with Coach Dick Irvin still undecided about final composition of the team to defend the Stanley Cup. He has thirty-two players under observation, including the Syracuse Stars of the International League but with the exception of the right-wing position so capably filled by Frankie Finnigan last season and possibly a defenceman, the same line-up will probably defend the honors.

Greed Of Sport Stars Condemned

Boston, Oct. 28.—The greed of sport's super-star figures, especially those in professional hockey, yesterday was condemned by C. F. Adams, president of Boston Bruins of the National Hockey League. He pointed out the recent epidemic of holdouts in the National Hockey circuit, notably those of Earl Siebert, Dave Frothingham and Hooley Smith, not only interfered with the financial advancement of hundreds of younger players but also was "killing the goose that lays their golden egg."

MINOR HOCKEY OPENING SET

Teams of International League Will Swing Into Action on November 11

Windsor, Ont., Oct. 28.—Teams of the International Hockey League will swing into action November 11, touching off a forty-four game schedule equally divided between home and away games. Cleveland and Windsor pry the lid off at the border city, while Detroit Olympics open the season with the London Tecumsehs at the Forest City.

Buffalo and Syracuse renew their feud of last season at the home of the stars of November 12 to bring the entire circuit into action.

The play-off system will be the same as last year with the first four teams qualifying for a schedule of home and home games in a round-robin tournament, the team with the largest point-total winning the championship.

THISTLES TO OPPOSE CITY

Coast League Football Leaders Meet Stiff Opposition To-morrow Afternoon

Esquimalt to Clash With Wests; Duncan and Macca-bees Play at Central Park

To-morrow's senior football matches will find six clubs in action, four in the Coast League and two in the Victoria and District League. The former matches will bring together Saanich Thistles and Victoria City at Heywood Avenue with Swan as referee, and Victoria West and Esquimalt at lower Beacon Hill with Stewart in charge. These two matches start at 3 o'clock.

The Victoria and District League engagement will see Duncan battling the Macca-bees at Central Park, starting at 2.45 o'clock.

In the second division of the Coast League Victoria City will clash with Saanich Thistles at Hampton Road with Okeil as referee, and Esquimalt will meet Victoria West at upper Beacon Hill with Saunders handling the whistle.

Two matches are scheduled to-morrow in the Junior League with Jokers and Esquimalt playing at Victoria West Park with Bridgen as referee, and Oaklands meeting the Y.M.C.A. at Speenher's Park with Nurse as referee.

Some of the teams follow: Saanich Thistles—Wilmshurst, Joe Crowe, Leggett, Williams, Viggers, Jim Crowe, Mail, Price, Burns, Saville, Moran, Armitage, Duncan, Harper and McKenzie.

Victoria West—Marley, Moody, Wright, Lorrain, Peers, Borde, Connon, Toulson, Gibbons, D. Stewart, McHugh and Cocklin.

Esquimalt—L. De Costa, Joe Watt, March, John Watt, B. Stewart, W. De Costa, McAllister, A. Stewart, Pepin, Wagland, Edwards and Barnwell.

Maple Leafs Will Have Plenty of Weeding Out to Do Before Opening of Season; Find Trouble Replacing Finnigan; Lorne Chabot Shaping Up Well in Nets; Canadiens Will Take the Ice This Week-end; Aitkenhead and Moore in Keen Fight for Goal Position With New York Rangers

Battle for places on the world champion Toronto Maple Leafs of the National Hockey League goes merrily on with Coach Dick Irvin still undecided about final composition of the team to defend the Stanley Cup. He has thirty-two players under observation, including the Syracuse Stars of the International League but with the exception of the right-wing position so capably filled by Frankie Finnigan last season and possibly a defenceman, the same line-up will probably defend the honors.

Greed Of Sport Stars Condemned

Boston, Oct. 28.—The greed of sport's super-star figures, especially those in professional hockey, yesterday was condemned by C. F. Adams, president of Boston Bruins of the National Hockey League. He pointed out the recent epidemic of holdouts in the National Hockey circuit, notably those of Earl Siebert, Dave Frothingham and Hooley Smith, not only interfered with the financial advancement of hundreds of younger players but also was "killing the goose that lays their golden egg."

MINOR HOCKEY OPENING SET

Teams of International League Will Swing Into Action on November 11

Windsor, Ont., Oct. 28.—Teams of the International Hockey League will swing into action November 11, touching off a forty-four game schedule equally divided between home and away games. Cleveland and Windsor pry the lid off at the border city, while Detroit Olympics open the season with the London Tecumsehs at the Forest City.

Buffalo and Syracuse renew their feud of last season at the home of the stars of November 12 to bring the entire circuit into action.

The play-off system will be the same as last year with the first four teams qualifying for a schedule of home and home games in a round-robin tournament, the team with the largest point-total winning the championship.

Coast League Football Leaders Meet Stiff Opposition To-morrow Afternoon

Esquimalt to Clash With Wests; Duncan and Macca-bees Play at Central Park

To-morrow's senior football matches will find six clubs in action, four in the Coast League and two in the Victoria and District League. The former matches will bring together Saanich Thistles and Victoria City at Heywood Avenue with Swan as referee, and Victoria West and Esquimalt at lower Beacon Hill with Stewart in charge. These two matches start at 3 o'clock.

The Victoria and District League engagement will see Duncan battling the Macca-bees at Central Park, starting at 2.45 o'clock.

In the second division of the Coast League Victoria City will clash with Saanich Thistles at Hampton Road with Okeil as referee, and Esquimalt will meet Victoria West at upper Beacon Hill with Saunders handling the whistle.

Two matches are scheduled to-morrow in the Junior League with Jokers and Esquimalt playing at Victoria West Park with Bridgen as referee, and Oaklands meeting the Y.M.C.A. at Speenher's Park with Nurse as referee.

Some of the teams follow: Saanich Thistles—Wilmshurst, Joe Crowe, Leggett, Williams, Viggers, Jim Crowe, Mail, Price, Burns, Saville, Moran, Armitage, Duncan, Harper and McKenzie.

Victoria West—Marley, Moody, Wright, Lorrain, Peers, Borde, Connon, Toulson, Gibbons, D. Stewart, McHugh and Cocklin.

Esquimalt—L. De Costa, Joe Watt, March, John Watt, B. Stewart, W. De Costa, McAllister, A. Stewart, Pepin, Wagland, Edwards and Barnwell.

Eastern Gridders Clash In Crucial Battles To-morrow

Hamilton Tigers and Montreal Wheelers Hold Spotlight With Match at Hamilton; University of Toronto Engage Western Mustangs in Another Important Engagement; Sarnia Imperials Will Celebrate Title Success by Playing St. Michael's

Toronto, Oct. 28.—Four of the dominant powers in eastern football come to grips to-morrow in two divisional battles that will either pave the way to the Canadian play-down stage or scramble union standings to such an extent that it will take the rest of the season to straighten them out.

These highly important clashes bring together Hamilton Tigers and Montreal Wheelers at Hamilton and University of Toronto and Western Mustangs at Toronto. Two other games in the Big Four and intercollegiate depend on results of the first two for their importance.

McGill will come tumbling back into competition, a full-fledged challenger, if the Red team decisions Queens and Western blocks the mad Varity rush, to the college throne room, and Argonauts will retain an outside chance in the Big Four if they beat Ottawa while Hamilton evens the count on Montreal.

It is just another Saturday of gunning in the Senior O.R.F.U., though Sarnia Imperials will take the occasion to celebrate officially winning of their second straight title. The mighty clinch, who have outclassed all foes in their group, are expected to record a fifth straight win at the expense of St. Michael's College, while Balm Beach and Hamilton Cubs meet here in a game that doesn't mean very much.

AMOS STAGG IN FINE CONDITION

Seventy-year-old Football Coach Shown in Good Health By Doctors

Chicago, Oct. 28.—A worried old man yesterday stepped into a doctor's office for a physical examination. An hour later, he strutted out to hand-father-time another licking.

It was Amos Alonzo Stagg, seventy-year-old patriarch of United States football.

"Through? Through?" he repeated, "I guess not for a while yet. I'm in good physical condition. My blood pressure's 130. A lot of young men would like to be that healthy."

Three luring offers from universities have come his way since his "retirement" from Chicago University under the seventy-year rule was announced two weeks ago yesterday, but he has turned them down to stay at Chicago.

Aston Villa Faces Hard Task Holding Soccer Leadership

Face-setters in English First Division Go Up Against West Bromwich on Their Home Grounds; Arsenal, Second-place Holders, Will Meet Leicester City; Derby County Oppose Huddersfield; Keen Competition in Second Division; Glasgow Rangers Clash With Kilmarnock

London, Oct. 28.—Their leadership challenged by Arsenal's threatening advance, Aston Villa faces the necessity of defeating West Bromwich to-morrow to assure retention of first position in the English League First Division standing.

Only undefeated outfit in the division, the Villa face worthy foes in the Albions, who have won six of their nine games this season and have the advantage of home grounds. Arsenal, on the other hand, meet the weaker Leicester City team, and are given an excellent chance to take the leadership—which the Villa holds by only one point—should Albions upset the leaders.

Derby County, third place holders and only two points behind the Villa, provide another feature game when they clash with the strong Huddersfield aggregation. The Sheffield United-Newcastle United and Everton-Portsmouth tussles are additional high spots on the First Division programme.

Second Division leaders are promised keen competition in their matches to-morrow, but all are expected to emerge with wins over teams halfway down the standing. Stoke City take on Notts County, who have won only two games to the leaders' eight, and Bradford City, only two points behind Stoke, are at home to Notts Forest, who also have won only a brace of games.

CRICKETERS SCORE FAST

touring M.C.C. Team Clicks Off 583 For Seven Wickets in Match With Australia

Perth, Western Australia, Oct. 28.—The touring M.C.C. cricket team ran their first innings score up to 583 for seven wickets to-day before declaring, as the match with a combined Australian eleven was resumed. The Australians scored 65 for no wickets at the close of play for the day.

The weather was fine and the pitch was good, 7,000 spectators being on hand. Following Sutcliffe and the Nawab of Pataudi, who yesterday made a brilliant stand for 225 runs, Captain D. R. Jardine knocked up 98 in two hours and three-quarters, including 11 fours, before his wicket was taken by Don Bradman, celebrated Australian batsman and bowler.

W. Hammond scored 77 in three hours and ten minutes, with the aid of one six and six fours. Of the four wickets which fell to-day two were taken by Bradman for 106.

FOURSOMES TO GET STARTED

Large Entry For Annual Competition at Victoria Golf Club

Play will start immediately in the annual Calcutta foursomes at the Victoria Golf Club. Over twenty couples have entered and the draw has been made for the first round. The first round must be completed by November 6. A week will be allowed for each following round.

Competitors will get in touch with their partners and opponents and arrange times for their matches to be played.

The combined handicaps of each couple have been divided by four, the result expressed in holes will be the handicap allowed, in a match the lower shall be deducted from the higher handicap. In case of a halved match it shall be played again unless the handicaps are equal when it will be necessary to play one or more holes only. Prizes will be awarded to the winning couple and runner-up. All matches to be eighteen holes.

The draw follows: J. D. Balfour and H. A. Tomalin (8), by. Alan Taylor and C. R. Rutherford (6 1/2), by. J. H. D. Benson and J. H. Fletcher (6 1/2), by. J. A. B. Hadley and S. J. Drake (9), by. J. M. Nichol and H. G. S. Heisterman (8).

Curtain Will Drop Here To-morrow On Canadian Football

Victorians Hope To Take Dodekas In Final Showing

New Westminster Bringing First-class Squad for Closing Engagement at Royal Athletic Park; Match Will Start at 3 o'clock; Lynn Patrick, Last Week's Star, Will Again Be in Action; All Local Boys Recover From Injuries

Canadian rugby football will gasp its final breath in Victoria for the 1932 season to-morrow afternoon at the Royal Athletic Park when the Capitals stack up against the New Westminster Dodekas. The match will get under way at 3 o'clock. Although out of the running for the Big Four championship the locals will trot out their regular squad and hope to take the measure of the Royal City squad.

Last Saturday the Victoria team saw its title hopes fade out when the Meralomas scored a 22 to 11 victory here. The locals put up a keen battle against the league leaders, but weakness in the early part of the match robbed them of any chance of winning. However, the smashing offensive displayed by Victoria in the final quarter, when the locals went over for a pair of touchdowns, impressed the fans.

Lynn Patrick, now known to his teammates and football followers as "The Flying Phantom," will see action again to-morrow. Last Saturday Patrick brought the crowd to its feet with two sensational touchdowns in the final quarter. To score his second he raced over sixty yards after gathering in a long kick on his own forty-yard line. The remainder of the team will be the same as last week. Several local players have been suffering from injuries received last Saturday, but all are reported in shape for the final encounter.

THREE STARS COMING

New Westminster are bringing over the same club that smashed through V.A.C. for a 10 to 7 victory a couple of weeks ago. Callahan, Stagg and Rich, the three stalwarts who played such a big part in this upset win, will be in the line-up.

The Victoria line-up for the game is announced to-day by Coach Doug Roberts follows: Roddy McInnes, left end; Bunny Cox, left tackle; Bob Engleson, left guard; John Plank, center; Bert Butler, right guard; Ian Acland, right tackle; Lynn Patrick, right end; Sandy Smith, fullback; Bill Lemm, flying wing; Ted Colgate, half-back; Frank Briddle, half-back; Wally Stipe, half-back; Madden, Bruce Forbes, Billingsley, Hall, Stagg and Rasmussen will see action as substitutes.

The following players will make up the New Westminster team: K. McDonald, Parks, Lilloe, J. McDonald, Hale, Bourne, M. McDonald, Davy, Henderson, Trassolini, Currie, Ward, Stevens, Richards, McQuarrie, Robson, Desbriay, Lewis, R. Thill, Stagg, Callahan and Rich.

raised Kruse's hand, amid a storm of "boos."

The crowd kept up such a din that the announcer could not give the weights for the McLaughlin-Brantana bout, but the "Bull" looked to be at a disadvantage of several pounds. He drew repeated applause by his speed in slipping out of holds and clamping on all manner of clutches. McLaughlin was equally clever, and the bout was speed plus clever speed. Jack tried a few feisty shoulder butts in the third, and in the fourth they fell out of the ring, returning somewhat dazed.

Disadvantage in weight was beginning to tell on Brantana, and McLaughlin finally got a double elbow and slammed him with a body press, for what proved to be the only fall.

Racetrack Wagering Shows Big Decrease

All Tracks in Canada Operate on Greatly Reduced Returns This Year

Bets Total $28,683,682 As Compared to $33,377,786 For 1931

Ottawa, Oct. 28.—Race track betting in Canada in 1932 again showed a marked decline from the figures of the previous year, since the total amounts wagered on all tracks in 326 days' racing amounted to only $28,683,682 as against $33,377,786 for 336 days' racing in 1931, a decrease of $4,694,104 or some 14 per cent. This was announced in a statement issued yesterday by the Department of Agriculture.

In their order of importance as racing centres, the cities of Canada may be listed in the following order: Toronto, $10,885,904; Windsor, Ont., $3,122,576; Winnipeg, $2,472,246; Montreal, $2,431,531; Vancouver, $2,344,028; Hamilton, $1,800,304; Fort Erie, Ont., $1,644,320; Niagara Falls, $1,311,354; Calgary, $827,880; Ottawa (Connaught Park), $749,703; Victoria, $512,779; Edmonton, $247,227; Regina, $190,124; and Saskatoon, $175,316.

The amount wagered at Polo Park, Winnipeg, was $1,182,058, which was 27 per cent below last year, while the figure for Whittier Park, Winnipeg, was $1,290,178, a decrease of 12 per cent.

At Saskatoon $175,316 was wagered as against $179,702 in 1931, while at Regina, where no meeting was held last year, $190,124 was wagered.

A LARGE DECREASE

The total amount wagered in the province of Alberta for thirty-three days' racing was $1,114,305, as compared with $1,850,907 for thirty-four days' racing in 1931, a decrease of $736,602 or 40 per cent. The figures for the various tracks being as follows:

Victoria Park, Calgary, fourteen days, $368,827, decrease 14 per cent; Chinook Park, Calgary, seven days' racing, $250,542, decrease 29 per cent; Edmonton six days' racing, $247,227, decrease 3 per cent; and Cochrane, four days' racing, $336,850, decrease 29 per cent.

A very small two-day meet, was held at Red Deer, but the total betting was only $919.

In British Columbia the total betting for fifty-nine days' racing was $2,776,877, as against $3,498,257 for fifty-five days' racing in 1931, a decrease of $721,380, or 20 per cent.

At Hastings Park, Vancouver, where three extra days' racing were held as compared with last year, the total betting amounted to $676,625, as against $605,595 in 1931.

At Brighouse Park the amount wagered in 1932 was $836,983, decrease 29 per cent; Lansdowne Park, $830,420, decrease 20 per cent; Cochrane Park, $265,652, decrease 32 per cent; and Willows Park, $109,067, decrease 40 per cent.

derstood from the start. By doing so, however, they obtained the privilege of having their photographs taken free, instead of having to pay for them themselves.

In addition, we felt that we had the entire right to deal with whatever photographer we pleased, and we think that the Photographers' Association could hardly deny us this right. Should, however, any person wish to send their photograph in direct, they are naturally at liberty to have it taken when and where they choose.

We wish it clearly understood that our policy has been to sell subscriptions, offering the free photograph as an additional inducement and not, as Mrs. Wilkinson's letter implies, persuading the public that they must subscribe to "Tune In" in order to submit their photographs to the Commonwealth Productions Limited.

We may say that, in a conversation with Mr. Bishop, the president of the company, he stated that we were doing him a service by making our offer as, by so doing, we were casting department from which his casting director might choose persons suitable for extra work in motion pictures.

We shall appreciate it if you will publish this letter, as we feel that the Photographers' Association, through Mrs. Wilkinson, have been most negligent in investigating the facts of the case before making a statement to the general public. We quite agree with the feeling expressed in Mrs. Wilkinson's letter, and we have presented our proposition from the beginning in a straightforward manner. We are at a loss to find a reason why your letter should be published, especially as the photographer with whom we are dealing is the president of the Professional Photographers' Association, and has been in a position to acquaint them with the full facts of the case.

GOVERNMENT EMPLOYEES

To the Editor:—A deal is being said nowadays about the rank and file of the civil and public service. The general public has an innate antipathy for that class of people, and any projected or effected cut in their numbers or salaries is welcomed with a gleeful satisfaction. To them officials are parasites, leeches and generally good-for-nothings, living on the fat of the land at the other fellow's expense.

But who are these people? To define them in the least sympathetic manner, we should call them "a necessary evil." The running of a country or a city must be done by proper legislation; the legislators being elected by the people, in their turn engage a certain class of people for the enforcement of the law. They are the "servants" who the general public often blame and often abuse as if they were the personification of the law. The majority of these employees are of a quiet and easily-satisfied disposition, who, before the war, when the real estate and building boom was on, and money was made hand over fist, preferred to plod away at a steady if poorly remunerated position. It is the same class of people who, in great numbers, went overseas during the Great War, earning $1.10 a day; some losing their homes, unable to pay the instalments or mortgage interest on it, while often conscientious objects were rolling in money, making armament or building ships and purchasing homes with their war profiteering.

Again, the class of people under consideration, while the after-war building and stock orgy were in progress, were satisfied to earn a normal living, while some of them, who lost their homes, agreed to refund over a period of twenty years, of boom or slump, at a rate of 3½ per cent interest, a building loan advanced by the government, at a time when labor and materials had reached their highest peak in history.

These same people, whose comparatively small earnings were at one time so disdained by the more prosperous mechanics and financiers, are now the target of those on whom prosperity has turned its back, and who are now clamoring to have these once-upon-a-time-considered-small salaries cut, slashed and reduced to an irreducible minimum; and at a rate which would cripple any business efficiency, to have recipients of salaries dismissed, "fired," or otherwise done away with. Is this not enough to make anyone say in disgust with old George: "Bah! to this awful human inconsistency?"

In conclusion, we must agree that the suffering brought about by this world's worst depression is, through its universality, appalling; and that, apart from a return in sincere humiliation to God and His Lord, we can, humanly speaking, find no remedy! How could we when the keenest and brightest statesmanship has failed, when all the varieties and combinations of governments despair of ever finding a solution, when eminent scientists like Sir Alfred Ewing in Great Britain, or men like James Truslow Adams in the United States of America are perplexed and have nothing to suggest, save making the statement we all know too well, that humanity is a failure and a disappointment?

In plain language, we have reached the end of a dispensation. The present civilization is at the point of breaking up; but a new era is on the verge of being ushered in and that, by the One called the Lord of Heaven and of Earth, Who shall ever long appear as prophesied: "in power and great glory," to put to naught those who reject Him, and to set up His righteous kingdom to which there shall be no end! He alone is the remedy. He alone is the hope of the world! "Even so, come, Lord Jesus!"

INDIAN WORK IS DESCRIBED

W. M. Halliday, Retired Indian Agent, Speaks to Kinsmen Club of Life of Natives

Work among Vancouver Island Indians was described to the Kinsmen Club yesterday evening by W. M. Halliday, J.P., who recently retired from his post of Indian agent at Alert Bay.

In speaking of Indian life before the white man came to the Coast, Mr. Halliday said a few British Columbians knew the history of the Indians as well as they should. From older members of the Kwakwaka'wakw tribe among whom he had worked, Mr. Halliday learned a good deal about their former customs, and how stone hammers and flintstone chisels were used to hew a canoe. It required nearly two months to cut down a tree and sometimes a year to complete.

Mr. Halliday took up work among the Indians forty years ago and they still retained many primitive customs at that time. He spoke also of their superstitions, but paid tribute to their honesty, saying he had never had to lock his door.

The use of the word "Swish" in reference to an Indian was an insult, he said, because many of them were of noble ancestry.

In explanation of the expenditure by the Dominion Government on the Indian department, Mr. Halliday pointed out that British Columbia entered Confederation on the understanding that the federal government would provide for the Indians of the province the same as the Crown had done during colonial days.

SCOUTS COMING
NEXT MONTH

Nearly 500 Boy Scouts, from Washington, Oregon and British Columbia, will arrive in Victoria on November 28 for a three days' convention, the Rotary Club was informed yesterday afternoon by W. Solway, provincial organizing secretary of the Boy Scout Association. Mr. Solway appealed to the Rotarians to individually take one or more boys into their homes during their stay in Victoria, declaring that what citizens do with their boys in the next few years will have a material effect upon history.

"Look around you and you will realize that we have made a heck of a mess of things in the last fifty years," he advised.

Mr. Solway believed the convention was a big opportunity for Victoria to secure invaluable advertising, as the boys would tell their families and friends of the warmth of the welcome accorded them.

A joint intercity meeting of Rotarians will be held at Port Angeles on November 8, and Victoria Rotarians are expected to attend in strong force. The gathering will be attended by members of all the clubs in the Olympic Highway district.

The Spokes Club will reorganize for the coming winter on Tuesday evening next, at a meeting to be held in the secretary's office.

Fractional Gains In Wheat Market With Firm Close

Winnipeg, Oct. 28.—The wheat market simmered today to a quiet trading affair to-day with bulls easily commanding the situation. Selling quickly dried up after the first hour and the close revealed moderate gains. Closing prices were 1/4 to 1/2 higher than yesterday's close. October closed at 47 1/2, November at 47 1/2 to 48, December at 47 1/2, and May at 51 1/2 to 52.

To-day's Grain Markets

WINNIPEG

(By Logan &amp; Bryan)

Winnipeg, Oct. 28.—The wheat market was somewhat quieter to-day. Export sales overnight and this morning were finally confirmed around 750,000 bushels and this business was reflected in the pit with buying of December by exporters and seaboard houses which was about sufficient to absorb the hedging sales.

Prices during the first half of the session declined about half cent after opening unchanged, but the market recovered with the three nearby months showing more strength than the May. These three months climbing to 1/2 over the previous close, October leading the way. It was fairly evident that a few belated shorts in the cash month were covering and transferring their edges into the May. Buying the October is very difficult as there was practically nothing for sale.

In the cash market the demand was very quiet to-day. This may have been based on an expected cut in freight rates, but it is very doubtful if this will take place, as it would place millions of bushels that have been taken across the lakes at the seven cent rate to a big disadvantage. Spreads were all about unchanged. The four top straight grades still continue on the October basis, but all other grades were placed on the decline basis, to-day.

Winnipeg futures closed 1/4 higher to 1/2 lower.

Coarse grains—The feature of these markets was strength in oats and barley more especially in the nearby months. It is claimed that all commercial grades have been merchandized and that farmers are not selling at present prices. The pit was practically bare of offerings of oats and barley. No export business could be confirmed.

Oats closed 1/4 to 1/2 higher, barley 1/4 to 1/2 higher, rye 1/4 to 1/2 higher, flax 1/4 to 1/2 higher.

Liverpool due 1/4 to 1/2 higher on Winnipeg.

Why Dorothy Dix

We Women Spend Most of Our Strength and Energy Fighting Off Old Age, but When It Comes We Discover That It Is a Time of Peace, Quiet and Happiness Such as We Have Never Enjoyed Before

THE OTHER DAY a woman of seventy astonished a group of her friends by saying:

"You won't know how I am enjoying my age. I am literally having the time of my life."

To the exclamations of amazement and disbelief that greeted this statement, she replied: "Oh, I know you think this can't be true, because the one thing we women fear most in age, and we use up most of our strength and energy in fighting it off, but when it finally comes we discover that it is a time of peace and quiet happiness such as we have never enjoyed before. It is like arriving at the end of a long, hard journey. It is like sitting down in the twilight after the stress and rush of the day's work is over and folding your hands and having time to think and philosophize and get a perspective on things and trying to find out what they were all about."

"We are so full of fears when we are young, and so worried about little things! I can remember how, when I was a young girl, I used to keep myself in a state of chronic nervous prostration almost over my anxiety over having dates, only we called them beaux then, and over whether I would be asked to every party and if I'd have plenty of cut-ins at the dances and if my frocks would be as pretty as the other girls' and if I missed getting to go to a ball I went down into the seventh hell of despair and felt that there was no use in trying to live in a world that was so filled with disappointments."

"But I am immune from all of that suffering now, because life has taught me that most of the things I was afraid of happening never happened at all, and if they did happen, they weren't half so bad as I thought they were going to be and that if I can't do the one particular thing I want to do, there is something else just as amusing and entertaining that I can do. Age has virtually no disappointments, and that alone would make it worth the price."

"Then I remember that as a young married woman I lived in perpetual dread of losing my husband's love. The poor dear was as domestic as the house cat, but that didn't keep me from having palpitation of the heart over wondering if I still thrilled him and if he still thought I was the ONLY woman, nor did it keep me from getting green-eyed over every pretty girl he enjoyed dancing with or with whom he got into a really animated conversation at a dinner. Believe me, my dear, no woman ever gets any real happiness out of being married until she has been married to a man so long she knows she can't lose him or else she has got to the place where she doesn't care whether she does lose him or not. And that is why old wives never have that harried look in their eyes that young wives have."

Then age is the great emancipator. Only the old are free. When you are young you are bound by a million conventions and policies and social necessities and restrictions. You have to run with the herd and do the things that it is expedient to do and generally keep up with the procession, but when you are old you can snap your fingers in Mrs. Grundy's face and do exactly as you please."

"You dress as you choose, and if you want to wear red flannel underwear and flat-heeled shoes, it is nobody's business. If you are a frump when you are old, you are merely individual, and you can get a reputation of being a smart dresser on a tenth of the money it costs a young woman, because everybody notices if when an old woman wears Paris frocks and hats that don't look as if they belonged to the Calvin Coolidge era."

"And blessed be Allah for all of His mercies to us, when you are old you don't have to follow all the new fads and take up with the new theories and change your politics and religion and try to improve yourself for fear you will be thought a back number. Because you already are a back number and that gives you the privilege of indulging your tastes and sticking to your old carved mahogany and having pictures on your walls and listening to the old operas instead of having to go modernistic and jazzy and sexy. And because you have already read the improving books and seen the uplifting plays you are free to go to musical comedies and like mystery stories."

"And, above all, when you are old you don't have to go places that bore you nor endure the people who get on your nerves. Youth has to keep in the running and cultivate those who may advance its fortunes, but when you are old you have no axe to grind, so you can just consult your own tastes and inclinations about where you go and gather about you only the people who are congenial and entertaining."

"But the chief value of age is that it is the most perfect alibi in the world and excuses you for everything you want to do or don't want to do. Especially for a woman. For when a woman is old she is old enough to do anything without criticism if she wants to do it, but if she doesn't want to do it, she is too old to do it. I, for instance, am old enough to go around the world alone, but I am too old to be bothered taking care of my grandchildren."

"Believe me, age is such a graft, it always surprises me that women don't get in on it earlier in life, if you get what I mean."

Five Famous Scientists

V-MARIE CURIE

Back in 1893, the World's Columbian Exposition was held in Chicago. From far and wide, people had brought to Chicago new products, new inventions, new wonders of science.

In her attic room, the young woman prepared her meals.

In that same year—4,000 miles away in Paris—lived a young Polish woman. She was poor. She had few friends. Sometimes she was cold, for she lived in an attic room which was not well heated.

In her attic room, the young woman prepared her meals. With the help of an alcohol lamp. Sometimes a meal consisted of only an apple, a piece of bread and a cup of cocoa.

We may be sure that no one at the Chicago fair had ever heard of the Polish woman—Marie Sklodowska. Yet her patient labors, together with those of her husband, led to the discovery of the elements polonium and radium.

On cold winter nights, Marie Sklodowska placed the clothing she owned over her bed covers. In the morning she woke up to find that the water in the wash basin of her room had frozen.

In a little stove she would build a fire, and then would make her breakfast.

It was a hard life, but she was happy—for she was an university student, learning new and wonderful things each day.

was married to a professor—Pierre Curie. Their marriage proved delightful. Both were interested in science. Both wanted to increase the knowledge of the world.

A year after the wedding, Curie and his wife might have been seen at work in an old shed which served as their "laboratory." It was not well-equipped. In summer, rain leaked in from the roof. In winter, it was cold; but these two went on with their work, caring little for their lack of comfort. They were testing certain kinds of rock, in an effort to learn whether substance which made certain strange rays could be separated from the rest of the rock. Gases were used in the work, and sometimes the shed was filled with gas fumes.

Professor Curie had to spend much of his time teaching, but his wife carried on the work alone while he was absent from the laboratory. It was she who at last brought forth the very small amount of pure "radium" salt.

News of the radium discovery brought fame to the Curies. They explained freely how more might be obtained. It was no desire of theirs to obtain riches from the work they had done. They gave radium to the world, as a gift of science.

Horoscope

SATURDAY, OCTOBER 28, 1932
Adverse aspects dominate in the horoscope for today, according to astrology. Again the stars seem to invite those who play safe in business to pass the hours in recreation. In the early morning there may be a discomfiting to work and a sense of uneasiness. The average lot in life. It is well to discipline the thoughts. Unfavorable under this way, which is unfavorable for wage-earners in certain industries.

Warning is given that many efforts to forward strikes may be expected under planetary government. It is important for all who have jobs to count. Quarrels, arguments and unpleasant comments may be numerous under this direction of the stars. The wise will watch their words with special care.

Self-pity is indicated as likely to be prevalent at this time, when the mind inclines toward discontent and uncertainty. This destructive human weakness should be overcome at any cost, the seers warn. After sunset, the rule of the planet may be much more favorable to-day. The mental outlook should be brightened by the aspects in which Neptune is powerful. The evening is not especially promising to young folk, who may meet disappointments of a minor sort, especially where romance is expected. Literature and art now are subjected to planetary influences that promise a renaissance of romance and beauty, astrologers forecast. Young writers and painters are to establish new schools that are reactionary and yet progressive, the seers prophesy. Wonderful discoveries of gold and precious stones are forecast for Africa, which is to challenge world attention by its growing wealth. Persons whose birthdate it is have the augury of a year of advancement, despite certain problems of finance. Children born on this day probably will be determined and persistent in nature. The subjects of this sign are usually industrious and fond of detail. James Boswell, famous biographer, was born on this day, 1740. Others who have celebrated it as a birthday include Thomas F. Bayard, 1858, statesman, and John Keats, 1795, famous English poet.

WOULD OPPOSE BUDGET CUTS

Seattle, Oct. 28.—Charges that the move to impeach him is part of a plan by the minority on the city council to upset the $2,500,000 reduction in the 1933 city budget, were made Wednesday by Mayor John F. Dore, while the council efficiency committee prepared to launch an investigation of his activities.

"That I am convinced," the mayor said, "is the real purpose behind this new attack upon me by the four minority members. They would like to oust me, so they can block some of the cuts contained in the budget."

PHYSICIST MAKES A WAVING TUBE

Dr. Isay Balinkin Develops New Machine For Measuring Light Pressure

An instrument which shows graphically how light pushes with real pressure against any object on which it falls has been devised by Dr. Isay Balinkin, physicist of the University of Cincinnati, reports The Associated Press.

The "pressure" of light means that it has actual weight, in ounces, pounds and tons. The weight of the sunlight on earth's surface is now computed by scientists at about two and one-half pounds to the square mile.

A comet's tail points away from the sun all the time the comet's head is swooping around the solar orb, and this is attributed to the pressure of sunlight on the extremely tenuous substance believed to form a tail. This pressure of light was first announced by Clark Maxwell about 1870. The new Cincinnati device is said to be the first apparatus capable of demonstrating visually how light pressure operates. Yet the machine is not much more than a flexible rubber tube, weighed with lead shot and provided with means of "kicking" it into up-and-down motion.

The hose is threaded through eyelets on twenty metal arms moving freely on a horizontal steel axle. To the first arm is attached a rocking mechanism operated by a small electric motor. Movement of the rocker sends waves whipping along the tube. A small disk becomes "the world" in Dr. Balinkin's demonstration of light's pressure. The hose is threaded through it, and a small spring holds it toward the end to which the wave motion is applied. Oscillation of the hose drives the disk upon its spring as if direct pressure were being applied to its face.

EDUCATION COST HELD INEXPENSIVE

Ten Cents a Day From Each Person of Voting Age Would Meet Bill

Ten cents a day paid by each of the 72,943,624 persons of voting age in the United States in 1930 would pay the entire bill for the public education of almost 26,500,000 students, says Emory M. Foster, chief of the Division of Statistics of the Federal Office of Education, in a bulletin issued recently from that office. The annual cost for publicly-controlled education per adult twenty-one years of age and over in 1930 was $36.42. The total cost was slightly more than $2,600,000,000.

An additional 2 or 3 cents a day from each member of the voting population would finance education, now under private control, which cost a little more than $200,000,000 in 1930 for educating about 3,500,000 students, Mr. Foster points out. For public and private education the annual cost, in 1930 per adult, was $44.34. Between 12 and 13 cents a day for the voting population, it is computed, would meet the entire expense of the education of approximately 20,000,000 students, costing a total of $3,200,000,000. When one considers, says Mr. Foster, "the importance of education in a democracy and the unimportance of many of the things for which we spend 10 or 15 cents a day, it is astonishing how inexpensive education really is."

CARRIE'S AXE TO BE BURIED

Saying the government has "made a mess out of fighting demon rum," Mrs. Myra McHenry, above, eighty-three-year-old prohibitionist of Wichita, Kan., has decided the eighteenth amendment should be repealed and states' rights instituted. She was a lieutenant of Carrie Nation when that prohibition zealot went about with a hatchet smashing Kansas saloons. Upon Carrie Nation's death her hatchet went to Mrs. McHenry. For thirty years Mrs. McHenry, with the hatchet as her symbol, has carried on a spectacular prohibition campaign and has been jailed many times as a result of her zeal.
